Act 120 of 1970 created the Department of Transportation, effective July 1, 1970.

The Department was given the responsibility to develop programs to assure adequate, safe, and efficient transportation facilities and services at the lowest reasonable cost to the citizenry. Coordination of transportation services by local government and private enterprise is encouraged, as is cooperation of federal, state, and local government bodies in the achievement of transportation goals. These goals include providing needed facilities for the movement of people and goods, stimulating technological advancement in transportation facilities, providing leadership to identify and solve transportation problems, and developing and applying inter and multi-modal approaches to transportation policy and programs.

The Department assumed all of the powers and duties formerly performed by the Department of Highways; the bureaus of Motor Vehicles and Traffic Safety in the Department of Revenue; the Mass Transit Division in the Department of Community Affairs; and the Aeronautics Commission in the Department of Military Affairs. Of special importance among these responsibilities are those relating to certificates of title, licensing of operators, registration and licensing of motor vehicles, administrative enforcement of the Motor Vehicle Code including the Point System, and administration of aviation and airport development programs within the Commonwealth.

ADMINISTRATION

The Secretary of Transportation is the chief executive officer of the Department. His responsibilities include the development, maintenance, and operation of a balanced transportation system that includes highways, mass transit, rail service, aviation, and various forms of assistance to municipalities.

The Secretary is assisted by a work force of about 12,000 men and women in the Department's central office and 11 engineering districts. As representatives of the Secretary, they are custodians of 40,100 miles of highways (the fifth largest state-maintained network in the nation), 25,000 bridges, 1,500 buildings (including the state's Welcome Centers), and 25,000 pieces of equipment. They are responsible for administering nearly 11 million motor vehicle registrations and eight million operator licenses and play a direct role in the administration of financial and management assistance to 97 transit providers, 2,572 local municipalities, and 67 county governments.

All of these activities are financed from a budget which derives its principal sources of revenue from liquid fuel taxes, motor license fees, and federal aid, with additional financing for non-highway programs from the General Fund, the Public Transportation Assistance Fund, and the Lottery Fund.

Organizationally, the Department is composed of six major offices headed by six deputy secretaries. These offices, in turn, include 19 bureaus, four offices, 59 divisions, 11 engineering districts, and 58 county maintenance offices.

Reporting directly to the Secretary are the Office of Legislative Affairs, the Policy Office, and the Press Office.

Deputy Secretary for Administration – Directly responsible for the bureaus of Fiscal Management, Information Systems, Equal Opportunity, Office Services, Human Resources, the Center for Performance Excellence, and the Information Technology Program Office.

Deputy Secretary for Planning – Directly responsible for the Center for Program Development and Management and the Bureau of Planning and Research.

Deputy Secretary for Local and Area Transportation – Directly responsible for the bureaus of Public Transportation and Municipal Services.

Deputy Secretary for Safety Administration – Directly responsible for the bureaus of Motor Vehicles, Driver Licensing, and Driver and Vehicle Program Services, and the Offices of Information/Fiscal Service and Risk Management.

Deputy Secretary for Highway Administration – Directly responsible for the bureaus of Design, Construction and Materials, Maintenance and Operations, Highway Safety, and Traffic Engineering, 11 engineering districts, 58 county maintenance offices, and the Strategic Environmental Management Program Office.

Deputy Secretary for Aviation and Rail Freight – Established by Act 66 of 1982, is directly responsible for the Bureau of Aviation and the Bureau of Rail Freight, Ports, and Waterways.

POWERS

Powers and Duties of the Department:

- to develop and maintain a continuing comprehensive and coordinated transportation planning process;
- to foster efficient and economical public transportation services;
- to prepare plans for preservation and improvement of commuter railroad systems;
- to develop more efficient bus transportation services;
- to develop plans and programs for all modes of urban transportation, including (in addition to commuter rail and motor bus) rapid rail, trolley coach, surface rail, corridor rail, and other innovative modes of urban transportation;
- to coordinate the activities of the Department with those of other public agencies;
- to plan, build, and maintain state-designated highways, bridges, and other transportation facilities;
- to enter into contracts for designing, constructing, repairing, or maintaining state-designated highways, bridges, and other transportation facilities;
- to prepare and submit every even-numbered year to the State Transportation Commission a recommended program for the next 12 fiscal years. Each two years thereafter, the Department reviews and adjusts its construction program;
- to appear or intervene as a party before the Public Utility Commission when transportation problems are being considered by the Commission;
- to consult with appropriate officials regarding the environmental hazards and the construction, sanitary, recreation, and social considerations that may arise in the location, design, or reconstruction of any transportation facility;
- to represent the transportation interests of the Commonwealth before any federal agency or commission which determines national or regional transportation rates, routes, or policies.

Upon the submission of the preliminary plan or design to the Department for any transportation route or program requiring the acquisition of right-of-way, the Department follows hearing procedures required by the federal government for federal-aid transportation programs. At these hearings the Department considers the following effects of the transportation route or program: residential and neighborhood character and location; conservation, noise, air, and water pollution; multiple use of space; replacement housing; displacement of families and businesses; recreation and parks aesthetics; public health and safety; fast, safe, and efficient transportation; civil defense; economic activities; employment; fire protection; public utilities; religious institutions; and the conduct and financing of government. Additional considerations include natural and historic landmarks, property values, education, engineering right-of-way and construction costs, maintenance and operating costs, and operation and use of existing transportation routes and programs during construction and after completion.

State Transportation Commission — Holds regular meetings throughout the state and holds public hearings to set transportation program priorities.

The Commission gathers and studies information relating to the needs of highway construction or reconstruction; rapid transit, railroad, omnibus, and other mass transportation facilities and services; and aviation and airport facilities and services to determine the need and the recommended order of priority for their construction or reconstruction.

To accommodate local mass transportation needs, the Commission coordinates its mass transit recommendations with the plans of local instrumentalities such as regional and county planning commissions.

Every two years, the Commission recommends a 12-year transportation program to the Governor, the General Assembly, and the Secretary of Transportation for their consideration.

The Commission includes the following 15 members: the Secretary of Transportation (ex officio and chair); four other ex officio members, the chair and minority chair of both the Senate Transportation Committee and the House Transportation Committee; and 10 public members appointed by the Governor. They receive per diem compensation and reimbursement for expenses.

State Transportation Advisory Committee — Consults with and advises the State Transportation Commission and the Secretary of Transportation in planning, development and maintenance programs, and technologies for transportation systems. It includes 30 members: seven ex officio members (the Secretary of Transportation; the Director of the Governor's Office of Policy Development; Chair of the Public Utility Commission; the Secretaries of Community and Economic Development, Education, Environmental Protection, and Agriculture), two members of the House of Representatives appointed by the Speaker and two members of the Senate appointed by the President Pro Tempore, and 19 additional public members, seven appointed by the Governor, six by the Speaker, and six by the President Pro Tempore.

Hazardous Materials Transportation Advisory Committee — Recommends regulations for the highway transportation of hazardous substances. Created by Act 99 of 1984, the Committee is composed of representatives of the Department of Transportation, Office of Attorney General, the Department of Health, the Department of Environmental Protection, the Pennsylvania Emergency Management Agency, the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, and nine representatives of the hazardous materials industry and the public.

Washington, Ph.D., Senator Anthony H. Williams

On January 26, 1966, Governor William D. Scranton signed enabling legislation for the Pennsylvania Council on the Arts. Under the provisions of Act No. 538, the Council is charged with "the encouragement and development of the various arts" in the Commonwealth. The Council is directly responsible to the Governor.

The mission of the Council is to foster the excellence, diversity, and vitality of the arts in Pennsylvania and to broaden the availability and appreciation of those arts throughout the state. State arts funding comes from the citizens of Pennsylvania through an annual state appropriation for grants-to-the-arts. The Council also receives funding from the National Endowment for the Arts, a federal agency.

The Council responds to requests for support of arts organizations, arts programs, and arts projects initiated by non-profit art groups, institutions, schools and educational settings, service organizations, local arts councils, local governments, and, in some cases, artists. This work is carried on through its responsive funding program. Where special needs exist, the Council takes direct action and has originated partnerships and initiatives such as the Pennsylvania Partners in the Arts, the Arts in Education Partnership, the Preserving Diverse Cultures – Strategies for Success Program, Pennsylvania Performing Arts on Tour, and the Accessibility to the Arts in Pa. for Individuals with Disabilities initiative. The Council also awards fellowships each year to individual creative artists in selected categories.

The Council consists of 19 members – 15 private citizens and four members of the General Assembly. The citizen members are appointed to three-year terms by the Governor, with the advice and consent of the Senate, and serve without compensation. From these members, the Governor also appoints the chair and vice-chair of the Council, who serve at the Governor's pleasure.

Citizen members hold office until their successors have been appointed and confirmed. No member is eligible for re-appointment during the one-year period following the expiration of his/her second successive term.

Two of the legislative members are appointed from the House of Representatives by the Speaker, and two from the Senate by the President Pro Tempore. Legislative members are selected equally from the major political parties. For the purposes of Act 538, such members of the Legislature constitute a joint interim legislative committee on the arts, the Council, and its appropriation.

The Council sets the mission and goals for the agency, evaluates the agency's progress toward these goals, formulates policy, and makes final decisions on the use of funds. The Council has final authority in granting funds. It meets at least four times a year. Council meetings are open to the public. The Council is specifically directed by its enabling legislation to "avoid any actions which would interfere with the freedom of artistic expression or with the established or contemplated cultural programs in any local community."

In order to receive the best and most complete information in making decisions on the awarding of state arts funding, the Council appoints expert advisory panels whose members include professional artists, administrators, and others with specialized knowledge. All applications for responsive funding are reviewed by such panels with respect to how well the applicants demonstrate they meet published criteria established by the Council.

More than 225 private citizens serve on these panels, which evaluate approximately 1,250 applications yearly. These advisory panels are responsible for reviewing grant applications and making recommendations to the Council based on the criteria. The panels may also advise the Council on policy matters.

Panel members serve without compensation. A portion of each panel's membership rotates each year. The chair of each panel is a member of the Council; co-chairs may be selected from among the panel membership.

A professional staff, headed by an executive director, administers the Council's decisions. The staff serves as a resource for arts-related information for state and federal government, the public, and the arts field; administers the Council's partnerships and initiatives; advises applicants on the Council's responsive funding programs; and provides technical assistance to partners, individuals, and arts organizations.

The State Civil Service Commission, a three-member, bipartisan, independent administrative commission, was created by the Act of June 6, 1939, PL. 250, as amended; by the Acts of August 5, 1941, PL. 781; May 21, 1943, PL. 600; Mar. 20, 1945, PL. 44; and June 25, 1947, PL. 930. The Act of August 5, 1941, PL. 752, known as the Civil Service Act, created the State Civil Service Commission to administer the merit system in the Commonwealth.

Purpose – The purpose of the Civil Service Act of August 5, 1941, PL. 752, as amended, is to provide greater efficiency and economy in the government of the Commonwealth by establishing conditions of employment which will attract to the service of the Commonwealth qualified persons of character and ability and the appointing and promoting of said persons on the basis of merit and fitness.

Administration – The Commission is the administrative agency for the Pennsylvania Merit System. It is a bipartisan, three-member body appointed by the Governor and confirmed by the Senate for six-year terms or until a successor is appointed and qualified. Not more than two members are of the same political affiliation. The Governor designates one of the members as chair.

The Act provides that the executive director direct and supervise all administrative work and exercise certain powers and duties under the direction of the Commission. As the administrative head of the agency, he reports to the Commission and supervises the office of the Deputy for Operations.

Powers and Duties – The Commission is required to establish and adopt rules for making the provisions of the Civil Service Act effective; to require observance of the provisions of the Act and the rules and regulations thereunder; to hold public hearings and render decisions on appeals and record findings of fact and conclusions of law, upon request or on its own motion, in cases of demotion, furlough, suspension, or removal. It has the authority to conduct investigations and hold public hearings requested by the Governor, or the Legislature, or on its own motion, in matters relating to the enforcement and effect of the provisions of the Act.

Bureau of Employment Services – Plans and implements a recruitment program to attract an adequate supply of qualified personnel from which Merit System agencies can select employees. Provides employment information to the public, administers examinations, and provides diversity recruitment assistant.

Bureau of Personnel Assessment – Develops and administers the Merit System examination program; supervises statewide, local, and special test administration; and conducts basic and applied research in personnel selection.

Bureau of Information Technology Systems – Plans and operates the agency central processing system, which includes the application, examination, certification systems, an independent office automation capability, as well as implementing modern automated information management strategies.

Bureau of Technical and Informational Services – Administers and interprets the Civil Service Act and Commission rules and investigates alleged violations; trains agency personnel staff in proper personnel practices; provides examination, employee, and certification information; verifies personnel documents; and maintains a manual of certification policies and procedures.

Bureau of Communications and Legislative Affairs – Directs the Civil Service Commission's public relations/public information and legislative affairs activities, and works with Commission management and staff – as well as with other agencies – to coordinate efforts related to media relations, legislative liaison, and communications.

Human Resource Office – Establishes and maintains personnel programs and policies for the agency in accordance with existing Commonwealth and Civil Service regulations. It provides training and counseling services to agency employees.

Office of Budget and Fiscal Control – Prepares the agency's annual budget submittal; develops program measures and program revision requests; and monitors expenditures and fiscal procedures.

Office of Administrative and Support Services – Provides procurement of materials and equipment for the agency and maintains inventory control. It provides a wide variety of office services for the agency, including mail distribution, duplicating, and dissemination of examination materials, and maintains records of all classified service employees and test takers.

Agencies and Offices Served – Initially, Civil Service procedures were applied only to personnel in the Department of Public Assistance, Bureau of Employment Security, Liquor Control Board, and the State Civil Service Commission. This application was mandatory in the Act. On September 10, 1956, the Executive Board of the Commonwealth, by resolution and amendments thereto during the next six years, added approximately 13,000 professional and technical positions to the Civil Service program. On August 26, 1963, the Civil Service Act was amended, increasing coverage to approximately 45,000 employees and providing a single, uniform, modern legislative system for all Civil Service employees. As of January 3, 1991, there were approximately 69,069 Civil Service employees. The following state agencies now participate in the Commission's program of personnel services: Departments of Aging, Agriculture, Banking, Community and Economic Development, Conservation and Natural Resources, Corrections, Education, Environmental Protection, General Services, Governor's Office, Health, Insurance, Labor and Industry, Military Affairs, Public Welfare, Revenue, State, State Police, and Transportation; Liquor Control Board, Milk Marketing Board, Board of Probation and Parole, State Tax Equalization Board; Civil Service Commission, Fish and Boat Commission, Game Commission, Historical and Museum Commission, Public Utility Commission, Securities Commission, Emergency Management Agency, State Employees' Retirement System, Pennsylvania Municipal Retirement System, and the Public School Employees' Retirement System.

By statute, the administrative services for the Board of Claims shall be provided by the Department of Auditor General. (See "Powers and Duties" of the Auditor General) An executive secretary, counsel, and supporting staff are appointed by the Board.

Administration – The Board is composed of three members: an attorney, who serves as Chief Administrative Judge and chair; a civil engineer; and a citizen of the Commonwealth. Appointments to the Board are made by the Governor with the advice and consent of the Senate. Each member shall be appointed for a term of eight years.

The powers and duties of the Board, originally set forth in the Act of May 20, 1937, were restated and revised by Act 142 of 2002, as amended. Act 142 provides, among other things, that the Board of Claims has exclusive jurisdiction to hear and determine claims against the Commonwealth arising from contracts to which the Commonwealth is a party (other than claims arising out of the medical assistance program administered by the Department of Public Welfare). Act 142 also provides the Board with concurrent jurisdiction to hear and determine claims arising from Commonwealth contracts in which the Commonwealth is the claimant. Appeals from decisions of the Board are to the Pennsylvania Commonwealth Court.

The Commission meets on a regular basis to award funds under numerous federal and state funding programs that provide support and development of criminal and juvenile justice, including the prevention of crime and services to victims of crime. The Commission also administers the state's Victims Compensation Assistance Program, the Deputy Sheriffs' Education and Training Program, and the Constables' Education and Training Program. The Commission is served by the gubernatorially-appointed Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Committee, Targeted Community Revitalization and Crime Prevention Advisory Committee, Victims' Services Advisory Committee, Senior Citizen Advisory Committee, Deputy Sheriffs' Education and Training Board, and Constables' Education and Training Board. Also, the Chair has appointed other committees to help the PCCD in its endeavors, including the Economic Crime and Economic Development Advisory Committee, Homeland Security, Law Enforcement and Justice Systems Advisory Committee, and Evaluation Advisory Committee. Each committee is composed of representatives from across the system and from both state and local perspectives.

Other Commission duties are to provide statewide criminal statistical analysis services; render technical assistance and training to components of the justice system; advise the legislative and executive branches on justice policies, plans, programs, and budgets; develop priorities and strategies for responding to justice system problems; and serve as a forum for the continuing examination of criminal justice issues. The Commission also provides training for crime prevention practitioners and Drug Abuse Resistance Education (DARE) officers; and works with local criminal justice agencies to automate and integrate their information systems.

The Environmental Hearing Board, originally created by the Act of December 3, 1970, PL. 834, began to function on February 15, 1972. From then until January 1, 1989, the effective date of the Environmental Hearing Board Act, Act of July 13, 1988, PL. 530, the Board was an integral part of the Department of Environmental Resources, although the three Board members were appointed by the Governor and confirmed by the Senate. The 1988 Act established the Board as an independent quasi-judicial agency with five members functioning as full-time administrative law judges. Like their predecessors under the 1970 Act, Board members are appointed by the Governor and confirmed by the Senate for six-year terms. One of the members, designated by the Governor, serves as Chair.

The Board has jurisdiction to entertain appeals from orders, permits, licenses, or decisions of the Department of Environmental Protection. It functions like a court, holding hearings and issuing adjudications, or otherwise disposing of the appeals by final order. While the caseload fluctuates from year to year, the average number of appeals filed annually since the effective date of the 1988 Act exceeds 450.

Currently, the Board has five members. Offices are in Harrisburg and Pittsburgh. The Board operates under a budget of $1.8 million with an authorized staff of 18.

The Commission was created by Act 170-1978 and amended by Act 9-1989, the Public Official and Employee Ethics Law, to administer and enforce the provisions of that law. The law provides that public office is a public trust and any effort to realize personal financial gain through public office is a violation of that trust. The Act was passed to strengthen the faith and confidence of the people of Pennsylvania in their government. The Act established the State Ethics Commission to administer and enforce the provisions of the Act and to provide guidance regarding the standards established by the Act.

The State Ethics Commission is comprised of seven members who are cognizant of the responsibilities and burdens of public service. Three Commission members are appointed by the Governor, only two of whom may be of the same political party. One member each is appointed by the President Pro Tempore of the Senate, the Minority Leader of the Senate, the Speaker of the House, and the Minority Leader of the House. All are appointed without confirmation. Commission members are eligible to serve two full three-year terms.

Commission members and employees may not hold or campaign for any other public office, hold office in any political party or political committee, actively participate or contribute in any political campaign, have served as an officer in a political party for one year prior to appointment, influence any decision by a governmental body except as a member of the Commission, or be employed by the Commonwealth or a political subdivision in any other capacity.

The Commission's powers and duties, under the Ethics Law, include the following:

- render opinions to present or former public officials and public employees as to their obligations under the Ethics Act;
- investigate alleged violations of the Ethics Act;
- receive and review Financial Interest Statements of persons required to file;
- prescribe rules and regulations to implement the provisions of the Ethics Act;
- prescribe forms for filing;
- make statements available for public inspection and copying;
- maintain a master index of statements filed with the Commission;
- prepare and publish an annual report;
- accept and file information voluntarily supplied that exceeds the requirements of the Act.

The Pennsylvania Fish and Boat Commission is one of the oldest governmental conservation agencies in the nation, dating back to 1866. Act 1991-39, signed into law on December 12, 1991, changed the name of the Fish Commission to the Fish and Boat Commission. The Commission consists of 10 members serving eight-year terms. Eight members represent specific geographic locations, while the ninth and tenth are members-at-large and must be experienced boaters.

The Commission sets rules and regulations governing fishing and boating in and on all inland and boundary waters of the Commonwealth. In addition to managing and protecting the state's aquatic resources, the Commission also is mandated with the responsibility for all of the state's reptiles and amphibians.

As an independent state agency, the Commission is supported by anglers' and boaters' dollars generated through the sale of fishing licenses and boat registrations.

ADMINISTRATION

Executive Director – Appointed by the 10-member Commission. The Executive Director is the Commission's chief executive officer as well as chief waterways conservation officer, and has charge of all activities under the jurisdiction of the Commission. The Director is a member of the Atlantic States Marine Fisheries Commission, Mid-Atlantic Fishery Management Council, Pennsylvania Environmental Quality Board, Water Resources Council, and Wild Resource Conservation Board and an ex officio member of the Boating Advisory Board and the Northeast Association of Fish and Wildlife Agencies.

Executive Office – Oversees the Commission's legal, policy, media relations, Internet communications, planning, legislative liaison, and personnel functions.

Bureau of Engineering and Development – Directs the planning, survey, design, construction, and maintenance of Fish and Boat Commission facilities and property.

Bureau of Fisheries – Directs the research, propagation, management, and protection of fish, fisheries, habitat, reptiles, amphibians, and certain threatened and endangered species in the Commonwealth. In addition, the Environmental Services Division reviews permits and provides input to the Department of Environmental Protection and other agencies, and it oversees the Commission's habitat improvement efforts.

Bureau of Administration – Provides support services for all Commission operations, including warehousing, federal aid, personnel, budget, and procurement. The Bureau is also responsible for the issuance of about one million fishing licenses, 360,000 boat registrations, and other permits required by law and regulation.

Bureau of Law Enforcement – Directs the enforcement of fish laws, boating laws, and certain water pollution laws of the Commonwealth. In addition, within the scope of Fish and Boat Commission activities, it directs the enforcement of Title 18 (relating to crimes and offenses) and laws relating to misdemeanors and felonies; directs review of permits for mine drainage, stream encroachments, and highway and bridge construction; enforces laws; and conducts other Commission programs.

Bureau of Boating and Education — Plans and directs a statewide fishing, boating safety, and conservation education program; produces special publications such as brochures, booklets, maps, and pamphlets; provides graphics support for Commission programs, displays, and electronic communications efforts; supervises the magazine circulation unit and the sale and collection of monies for promotional items; and edits and produces the Pennsylvania Angler and Boater magazine.

(Act No. 180, approved Apr. 25, 1949, provides for a Pennsylvania Fish Commission with power to appoint an Executive Director. C.A. French, the Commissioner of Fisheries at the time of the approval of this Act, was appointed Executive Director of the new Commission Apr. 25, 1949.)

Vernon R. Ross, born Jan. 8, 1941, in New Kensington, son of the late Frank R. Sr. and Marie Ross; Ken H.S.; att. Univ. of Pgh., St. Joseph's Univ.; cpl./infantryman/combat photog., U.S. Army, 1959; businessman; v. pres., marketing & sales, IGA, 1962-95; sportsmen's adv. to Gov. Ridge/exec. dir., Gov. Sportsmen's Adv. Cncl., 1995-99; mem., var. sportsmen's clubs, civic orgs.; apptd. Executive Director, Game Commission May 1999; married Carolyn; 3 children; 5 grandchildren.

President: John J. Riley Commissioners: Thomas E. Boop, H. Daniel Hill III, Gregory J. Isabella, Stephen L. Mohr, Roxane S. Palone, Russell E. Schleiden, David W. Schreffler

The Pennsylvania Game Commission, an independent administrative agency created by legislative action June 25, 1895, is responsible for the scientific management of all wild birds and mammals in the Commonwealth. As an independent agency, its authority stems from the Game and Wildlife Code.

ADMINISTRATION

The Board of Game Commissioners is composed of eight members, each of whom serves an eight-year term without compensation, following appointment by the Governor and confirmation by the Senate. Each member is appointed from one of eight geographical districts in the Commonwealth.

The Game Commission is not supported by state tax money. The primary source of income is the sale of hunting licenses. Annually, more than one million hunters and trappers purchase licenses to hunt and trap in Pennsylvania.

The Commission maintains a central office in Harrisburg and six regional offices throughout the state.

The Harrisburg office contains an executive office and six administrative bureaus, in addition to the Ross Leffler School of Conservation, the Game Commission's training school.

Executive Office – Consists of the Executive Director and two Deputy Executive Directors who are the chief administrators of the Commission. It also is responsible for personnel, labor relations, and the Commission's training programs.

Bureau of Administrative Services – Responsible for procurement of all materials and supplies, the sale of hunting licenses, and all automotive operations.

Bureau of Wildlife Management – Employs trained wildlife biologists holding advanced degrees in wildlife management. They study the state's wildlife species to develop the most effective management practices and prepare guidelines that are reviewed by the executive office and presented to the Commission for adoption. This Bureau also is responsible for propagating game birds.

Bureau of Law Enforcement – Responsible for enforcing the Game and Wildlife Code.

Wildlife conservation officers carry out Commission programs on a local basis. Most districts are composed of approximately 300 square miles. One wildlife conservation officer, assigned to each district, is responsible for enforcing the game laws and public relations activities.

Deputy wildlife conservation officers assist wildlife conservation officers in executing their duties. They are volunteers and very few receive compensation for their work.

Bureau of Land Management – Oversees habitat improvement projects on State Game Lands to benefit wildlife and public hunting and trapping opportunities.

The land manager, responsible for an area of two or more counties, supervises habitat management programs for development of Commission lands and privately owned land under lease by the Commission, and provides training, guidance, and supervision of the Commission's Food and Cover Corps.

The Game Commission has several programs to provide lands for public hunting. Foremost is the acquisition of State Game Lands. This program began in 1920 and more than 1.4 million acres had been purchased by 2005.

This Bureau also coordinates leasing and management of mineral, oil, and gas resources under State Game Lands.

Bureau of Information and Education – Provides information for sportsmen and the general public on Game Commission programs and wildlife management practices. This is accomplished through the publication of Game News magazine, news releases, television public service announcements, educational television programs, displays, exhibits, and personal presentations. The bureau also houses the Hunter-Trapper Education and Conservation Education programs.

Bureau of Automated Technology Services – Provides data processing and office automation support for all operating bureaus, regional offices and field staff. The Bureau is an electronic storehouse of information for the agency.

Field Administration – The state is divided into six regions for the administration of field duties. The Northwest Region Office is in Franklin, the Southwest Office in Ligonier, the Northcentral Office in Jersey Shore, the Southcentral Office in Huntingdon, the Northeast Office in Dallas, and the Southeast Office in Reading.

Established by Act 71 of 2004, the Pennsylvania Gaming Control Board is charged with overseeing the expansion of gaming in the Commonwealth, including approving licenses for gaming entities, suppliers and manufacturers; occupation permits for employees of those entities, suppliers and manufacturers; and regulations necessary to ensure the integrity of gaming in Pennsylvania. It has general jurisdiction over all gaming activities in the Commonwealth.

The Board has seven members: three appointed by the Governor, including the Chairman, and one each appointed by the heads of the four legislative caucuses. Gubernatorial appointees serve staggered three-year terms. Legislative appointees serve two-year terms.

Most board actions require a "qualified" majority consisting of all four legislative appointees, plus one gubernatorial appointee. In the event that a legislative appointee recuses himself or herself from a vote, a "qualified" majority consisting of three legislative appointees plus one gubernatorial appointee is necessary for action to be taken.

The salary of the Chairman is $150,000 a year. The salary of each other member is $145,000 a year.

The Treasurer of the Commonwealth, the Secretary of Revenue and the Secretary of Agriculture are ex-officio, non-voting members of the Board.

PENNSYLVANIA HEALTH CARE COST CONTAINMENT COUNCIL

MARC P. VOLAVKA

Executive Director,
Pennsylvania Health Care Cost Containment Council

Marc P. Volavka, born Oct. 1951, in N.Y.; att. Suffolk Co. Com. Coll., 1970-72, Dickinson Coll., 1972-74; adm. asst., Subcomm. on Crime & Corrections, 1975-80, research analyst, Labor Relations Comm., 1981-84, sr. research analyst, Maj. Leader's Office, 1985-87, chief of staff, Maj. Leader's Office, 1987-88, chief of staff/exec. asst., Office of the Speaker, 1989, spec. asst., Maj. Leader, 1990-93, Pa. House of Reps.; dir., Prog. Adm., 1993-97, Policy Dev., 1997-98, Pa. Health Care Cost Containment Cncl.; apptd. Executive Director, Pa. Health Care Cost Containment Council June 1998.

The Pennsylvania Health Care Cost Containment Council is an independent state agency formed under Pennsylvania statute (Act 89, as amended by Act 14) in order to address rapidly growing health care costs. The Council's strategy to contain costs is to stimulate competition in the health care market by:

- giving comparative information about the most efficient and effective health care providers to individual consumers and group purchasers of health services;
- giving information to health care providers that they can use to identify opportunities to contain costs and improve the quality of care they deliver.

Act 89, as amended by Act 14, specifically assigns the Council three primary responsibilities:

- to collect, analyze, and make available to the public data about the cost and quality of health care in Pennsylvania;
- to study, upon request, the issue of access to care for those Pennsylvanians who are uninsured;
- to review and make recommendations about proposed or existing mandated health insurance benefits upon request of the legislative or executive branches of the Commonwealth.

The Council collects over 3.8 million inpatient hospital discharge and ambulatory/outpatient procedure records each year from hospitals and freestanding ambulatory surgery centers in Pennsylvania. The Council also collects data from managed care plans on a voluntary basis.

Since its inception, the Council has published hundreds of free public reports about health care in Pennsylvania. Examples include Measuring the Quality of Pennsylvania's Commercial HMOs; The Hospital Performance Report; Total Hip and Knee Replacements, Pennsylvania's Guide to Coronary Artery Bypass Graft Surgery; Financial Reports for Pennsylvania Hospitals and Ambulatory Surgery Centers; Pennsylvania's Diabetes Hospitalization Report and Choosing A Medicare Managed Care Plan, co-authored with the Pennsylvania Department of Aging, as well as periodic white papers and Research Briefs such as the nationally recognized, Hospital-acquired Infections in Pennsylvania. These reports are widely distributed, and can be found on the Council's Web site at www.phc4.org, and in most public libraries throughout the state. The Council has also produced hundreds of standard and customized reports and data sets through its Special Requests Unit for a wide variety of users including hospitals, policy-makers, researchers, physicians, insurers, and other group purchasers.

The agency is governed by a group of 25 voluntary council members. Twenty-two council members are appointed by the legislative leaders of the State House of Representatives, State Senate, and the Governor, respectively. The remaining three members are the Secretary of Health, the Secretary of Public Welfare, and the Insurance Commissioner. The Council meets six times a year.

The Pennsylvania Higher Education Assistance Agency (PHEAA) was established in 1963 to improve higher education opportunities for residents of the Commonwealth by guaranteeing and originating federal student loans, administering and awarding Pennsylvania State Grants, and administering work study, loan forgiveness, and institutional assistance grants programs. In 1974, the Agency was given legislative authority to market its loan servicing system to lenders and other states, enabling the Agency to earn income with which to fund additional student aid programs and to fund its own administrative costs, including all costs to administer the Commonwealth's programs of student aid.

Administration – The Agency is governed and all its corporate powers exercised by a board of directors. It is administered by a staff headed by the President and Chief Executive Officer who is appointed by the board of directors. The board consists of 20 members: the Secretary of Education, three members appointed by the Governor, eight members by the President Pro Tempore of the Senate, and eight by the Speaker of the House. Members serve without pay, but are reimbursed for actual and necessary expenses.

Students are able to obtain low-interest educational loans from private lenders under the Federal Family Educational Loan (FFEL) program, which includes Stafford, PLUS, and Consolidation Loans. Repayment of these loans is guaranteed by the Agency. Legislation enacted in 1982 allowed the Agency to sell tax-exempt bonds to provide additional programs of direct loans to students and parents. These low-cost guaranteed loan programs include the Keystone Family of Student Loan Programs, which features KeystoneBEST, offering Pennsylvania students the nation's most affordable student loan.

Using funds appropriated by the General Assembly, the Agency awards State Grants to students based on the students' demonstrated financial need. By authority of the Veterans Education Act of 1971, the Agency was given the responsibility of administering a program of educational benefits for veterans of the Vietnam conflict. In 1972, authority was given for a program to provide scholarship aid to dependents of service people who were or are missing in action or were prisoners of war.

In cooperation with educational institutions, community-based organizations and the federal government, work-study programs and other matching funds programs enable students who require further assistance to help with their educational costs.

The passage of the Institutional Assistance Grants Act in 1974 allowed eligible private institutions of higher education to receive state funds based on the number of state grant students in attendance at the institution.

PHEAA also administers for the Commonwealth the New Economic Technology Scholarship (NETS) Program, which makes scholarships available to undergraduate students studying in approved science or technology fields.

In 2002, PHEAA's Board of Directors created the Pennsylvania Higher Education Foundation (PHEF) to help nursing students pay for their education while addressing the serious nursing shortage within the Commonwealth. The PHEF utilizes private funds to administer the Nursing Education Grant Program, which provides scholarships to students pursuing nursing degrees at Pennsylvania nursing schools. The Foundation also offers scholarships for graduate students in specific areas of the Commonwealth.

The Armed Forces Loan Forgiveness Program was created by the PHEAA Board of Directors to recognize and thank those servicemen and women who served in the aftermath of the terrorist attacks on our nation. The program forgives up to $2,500 for borrowers with an AES-serviced student loan who served in an active-duty status between September 11, 2001 and June 30, 2005.

PHEAA, operating as American Education Services outside of Pennsylvania, manages more than $56.5 billion in total assets and serves nearly four million students nationally through its guaranty, servicing, and financial aid processing systems. The funds generated from its operations are used to self-fund administrative costs, improve higher education opportunities, lower the cost of financial assistance for students and families, and streamline processes for the higher education community.

As a self-funded organization with operations similar to a not-for-profit business, AES/PHEAA provides more than $120 million annually in public service benefits to Pennsylvania families – including the nation's lowest-cost student loans and powerful Internet-based solutions – at no cost to taxpayers.

The Pennsylvania Higher Educational Facilities Authority (PHEFA) was created by the Act of December 6, 1967 (PL 678), for the purpose of financing the construction and improvement of nonprofit colleges or universities within the Commonwealth. The Act excludes facilities to be used for sectarian study or religious activity, and further excludes use of PHEFA by colleges or universities which have admission restrictions based on race, creed, or national origin.

Since its establishment, PHEFA has issued over $11 billion in tax-exempt financing for Pennsylvania's colleges and universities.

Administration – PHEFA is a public corporation and governmental instrumentality of the Commonwealth. Under the Act, the Authority consists of the Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, the State Treasurer, the Auditor General, the Secretary of Education, the Secretary of General Services, the President Pro Tempore of the Senate, the Speaker of the House of Representatives, the Minority Leader of the Senate, and the Minority Leader of the House of Representatives. Pursuant to 24 PS. §791.3 of the Act, the President Pro Tempore of the Senate, the Speaker of the House of Representatives, the Minority Leader of the Senate, and the Minority Leader of the House of Representatives may designate a member of their respective legislative body to act as a member in their stead on the Authority Board.

By specific provision of the Act, PHEFA is administered by an executive director and a staff. Accounting records of PHEFA are audited by a certified public accounting firm.

Financing – PHEFA is authorized to issue bonds for the purpose of undertaking college/university (herein the “college”) capital projects. The college decides the type of debt instrument and the structure of financing. The issue is paid for by the college by payments made under terms of loan agreements, tax exempt leases, notes, and other debt instruments entered into between PHEFA and the college. Authority administrative costs are funded from administrative fees.

Projects – College projects financed by PHEFA are designed by architects or engineers selected by the college. The college enters into the construction contracts or purchase agreements and maintains and operates the facility upon completion.

The Pennsylvania Housing Finance Agency ("PHFA") was created in 1972 to help enhance the availability of high quality, affordable homes and apartments for Commonwealth citizens. It does this by providing mortgage capital to first-time homebuyers, and to developers of rental housing for older adults, persons with disabilities, or families with modest incomes.

Programs are administered in order to make the Commonwealth a better place to live while fostering community and economic development. By January 2005, PHFA had provided more than $6 billion of financing for over 100,000 single-family home mortgage loans, along with $1.5 billion of financing and $180 million of tax credits for the creation of 60,000 rental units across the Commonwealth. It also had made $310 million of Homeowners' Emergency Mortgage Assistance loans to save 30,000 homes from foreclosure.

Funding for these initiatives comes from a number of sources, including the sale of PHFA's securities to private investors throughout the nation, program fees, and tax credits. PHFA's expenses are paid for by fee and investment income. A substantial part of its investment earnings is used to subsidize the housing programs. Repayments from participating homeowners provide funding for the Homeowners' Emergency Mortgage Assistance Program.

ADMINISTRATION

PHFA is governed by a board, comprised of the State Treasurer; the Secretaries of Banking, Community and Economic Development, and Public Welfare; six private citizens appointed by the Governor with the advice and consent of a majority of the Senate; and four members who serve at the pleasure of the Majority and Minority Leaders of the Pennsylvania House and Senate. Gubernatorial appointees serve a term of six years or until a successor is appointed and confirmed.

PHFA staff includes an Executive Director, Assistant Executive Director, and Division Directors as well as specialists in the fields of finance, market analysis, architecture, engineering, housing development and management, loan underwriting and servicing, construction, and law.

PHFA is committed to the policy that all persons shall have equal access to its housing programs and employment without regard to race, religion, gender, national origin, family status, disability, or age.

PROGRAMS

PHFA operates programs in three broad categories: multifamily rental housing; single-family homeownership; and foreclosure abatement through the Homeowners' Emergency Mortgage Assistance Program.

Multifamily Rental Housing Programs

PennHOMES – This program provides support loans to multifamily housing properties designed to provide affordable units to income-qualified persons and families and is funded through PHFA unrestricted fund balances and federal HOME program funds made available through contract with the Department of Community and Economic Development ("DCED"). (See below.) If financially feasible, PHFA also provides loans to support these properties through the issuance of tax exempt or taxable bonds. These properties may be preservation transactions, substantial rehabilitation, or new construction.

PHFA monitors the operation of these properties throughout the life of the loans (generally 25-30 years).

PHFA Unrestricted Funds – Since 1987, PHFA has set aside a portion of its unrestricted reserve funds for the production of affordable rental housing.

Federal HOME Investment Partnerships ("HOME") Program – Pursuant to an agreement with DCED, PHFA receives federal HOME program funds available to the Commonwealth for the development of multifamily housing projects. (These federal funds may only be used in nonparticipating jurisdictions which are communities that do not already receive HOME entitlement allocations from the federal government.)

Federal Low Income Housing Tax Credit Program – The Low Income Housing Tax Credit Program is a federally authorized housing initiative that allows owners of, and investors in qualifying rental developments to receive tax credits as a dollar for dollar reduction of their federal income tax liability. PHFA is the administrator of this program for the Commonwealth. An allocation from PHFA provides tax credits to the developer annually over a ten year period. The development must maintain affordability to low income residents for a minimum of 18 years, but in most cases, 30 years. PHFA monitors the developments during the affordability period for compliance to the program. PHFA's allocation of tax credits in 2005 is approximately $23,000,000.

Single Family Homeownership Programs

Mortgage Revenue Bond ("MRB") Program – This federally authorized program allows PHFA to sell mortgage revenue bonds to generate funds for the acquisition of thirty-year low interest mortgages to qualified homebuyers of new and existing single family residences throughout the Commonwealth. Homebuyers must meet certain eligibility requirements. Since its inception to January 2005, PHFA has sold more than $6 billion dollars in bonds, under 86 separate financing series (including both tax exempt and taxable securities) to fund this origination program. PHFA currently services approximately 40,000 mortgage loans under this program.

Keystone Home Loan Program – PHFA makes MRB loans available through a network of lenders to first-time homebuyers throughout the Commonwealth who meet home purchase price and income limits. Loans available in the program have interest rates below the conventional loan market. Further reduced interest rate mortgages, with reduced fees and costs are often made available to encourage homebuying in underserved areas of the Commonwealth and by lower income families.

Keystone Home Loan PLUS Program – This homeownership loan program, also funded through the sale of PHFA bonds, targets first-time homebuyer households with incomes at or below 80 percent of their county's median income. Borrowers must be households with at least one child or with a household member with a disability. Borrowers pay no points under this program and generally benefit from a lower interest rate on the loan than would otherwise be available through the Keystone Home Loan Program.

Closing Cost Assistance Program – PHFA has set aside funds from its unrestricted fund balances to provide support loans for closing cost assistance up to $2,000 to lower income persons and families purchasing homes under the Keystone Home Loan PLUS Program. Funds are also available from the federal HOME program to fund down payment and closing assistance to low income buyers of new homes. (See below.)

Homestead Second Mortgage Program – This homeownership program uses federal HOME funds to provide non-interest bearing second mortgages to assist first-time homebuyers with down payment and closing costs. Loans are made in conjunction with a PHFA first mortgage. Loans range from $1,000 to $15,000 and no repayment is required until payoff of the PHFA first mortgage, sale, transfer, refinance or non-owner occupancy of the property. As a result of federal guidelines, the program is only available in selected areas of the Commonwealth, is limited to households with incomes at or below 80 percent of the area median income and is currently targeting newly constructed homes.

Homeownership Choice Program – Since 2000 (through January 2005), PHFA has provided over $42,000,000 from its unrestricted fund balances to stimulate the design and implementation of homeownership opportunities in urban environments. Approximately 42 developments have been selected to participate in the program since its inception. PHFA funding has leveraged over $277,000,000 in additional housing and infrastructure investment in these communities.

Foreclosure Abatement Program

Homeowners' Emergency Mortgage Assistance Program ("HEMAP") – HEMAP provides temporary financial assistance, in the form of mortgage loans, to homeowners in danger of losing their homes to foreclosure due to circumstances beyond their control. The program is administered in accordance with guidelines published at 12 Pa. Code Chapter 31.201, et seq. To qualify for funding under HEMAP, homeowners must meet various statutory criteria, including the following: the property must be a single family residence and must be owner occupied; the homeowner's financial hardship must be due to circumstances beyond his/her control (such as job loss, medical emergency, etc.); there must be a reasonable prospect that the homeowner will be able to resume full responsibility for mortgage payments within 24 months; there can be no more than two current liens on the property being assisted; and the maximum assistance provided to a homeowner may not exceed $60,000. In addition, the homeowner must pay at least $25 each month to repay the HEMAP loan (and must repay in accordance with an annual recertification process when financial stability is attained).

HEMAP is funded through repayments, program income and infusions of funds from the Commonwealth.

Supportive Services Program – PHFA financed properties may be qualified to participate in one of PHFA sponsored supportive service programs to provide on-site coordinators to assist residents in finding necessary services.

Other Information

In addition, PHFA offers a number of training seminars, workshops, and education programs to help those interested in affordable housing. It also conducts studies, sponsors research, and produces reports about affordable housing and related issues.

The Pennsylvania Human Relations Commission enforces the civil rights laws of the Commonwealth. Created in 1955, the Commission administers two laws, the Pennsylvania Human Relations Act (originally the Pennsylvania Fair Employment Practice Act) and the Pennsylvania Fair Educational Opportunities Act.

Commission policy is established by 11 commissioners who are appointed by the Governor with the advice and consent of a majority of the members of the Senate. The Commission is independent and non-partisan in composition, with no more than six of its 11 members being from any one political party. Commissioners also appoint staff and adopt rules and regulations to effectuate the purpose of the law.

The Commission's goal is to eliminate discrimination in employment, housing, commercial real estate, public accommodations and education, where based upon race, color, religion, ancestry, age (40 and above), sex, national origin, familial status, handicap or disability, use of a guide dog or support animal because of blindness, deafness, physical disability or willingness or refusal to participate in abortion or sterilization procedures.

The Commission conducts two principal programs, a compliance program in which discrimination cases are investigated and resolved and a technical assistance program in which staff provides information and guidance to employers, owners and managers of housing, business proprietors, educators and others to comply with the law and addresses racial tension situations and community conflict related to bigotry and intolerance.

Executive offices of the Commission are located in Harrisburg. Complaints are received and investigated at regional offices located in Pittsburgh, Harrisburg and Philadelphia.

The Independent Regulatory Review Commission was created by Act 181 of 1982 (the Regulatory Review Act) to provide oversight and review of all proposed and existing rules and regulations issued by all departments, boards, commissions, agencies, or other authorities of the Commonwealth, excluding the Legislature, Fish and Game Commissions, and any court, political subdivision, or municipal or local authority.

The Commission exercises its authority to ensure that regulations are in the public interest and to determine whether regulations are cost-justifiable, minimal in inflationary impact, nonduplicative of other regulations, and conform to legislative intent. The Commission maintains a system of accountability to ensure that affected agencies properly justify their use of regulatory authority so that rules and regulations are not unduly burdensome nor adverse to the best interests of the private and public sectors of the Commonwealth.

The Commission also acts as a clearinghouse for complaints, comments, and other input regarding existing regulations, proposed regulations, and administrative procedures.

Liquor Control Board April 2003; married JoAnn; 1 son.

The Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board (PLCB) was created and organized by various acts of Assembly upon the repeal of National Prohibition in 1933. The Board was officially organized on December 1, 1933, four days before the sale of liquor became legal in Pennsylvania. The numerous laws related to alcoholic beverage control were later consolidated to form the present Pennsylvania Liquor Code (Act 21 of April 12, 1951, {PL. 90, No. 21}, as amended, 47 PS. §1-101-9-902). The Liquor Code serves as the basis for all operations of the PLCB under essentially the same basic tenets originally established by the Legislature in 1933.

The Board operates a system of 635 State Liquor Stores (designated Wine & Spirits Stores), and employs about 3,800 full and part-time personnel. Virtually all PLCB employees have Civil Service status. Pennsylvania is the largest of the 18 control or monopoly states in the nation and, as such, is the largest single purchaser of liquors and wines in the U.S.

The Pennsylvania Liquor Code governs the two main functions of the Board, the issuing of licenses and permits, and the buying and selling of distilled spirits and wines. The Code is designed to protect the public welfare, health, peace, and morals of Pennsylvania citizens. In 1987, the enforcement of the Liquor Code was transferred to the jurisdiction of the Pennsylvania State Police.

The Pennsylvania Liquor Code invests the PLCB with the duty and power to:

- buy, import, or have in its possession for sale, distilled spirits and wines;
- control the manufacture, possession, sale, consumption, importation, use, storage, transportation, and delivery of alcohol and malt and brewed beverages;
- fix the retail and wholesale prices at which wine and spirits are sold in Pennsylvania Wine & Spirits Stores;
- determine where Pennsylvania Wine & Spirits Stores shall be established;
- grant and issue licenses;
- lease, furnish, and equip accommodations required for the operation of the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board;
- make regulations necessary for the efficient administration of the Code (Such regulations have the force of law.);
- do all other things and perform all acts as are deemed necessary to carry out the provisions of the Code.

The Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board is comprised of three members appointed by the Governor and ratified by a two-thirds vote in the State Senate. No more than two board members may be from the same political party as the Governor. Members are appointed to staggered four-year terms ending at midnight on the third Tuesday in May. Actions and orders of the board require the approval of at least two members. The law also provides for a secretary to be appointed by the Board, with the approval of the Governor. The Board secretary performs general duties at the direction of the Board to coordinate board activities. In all of its actions, the Board is subject to the provisions of the Administrative Code of 1929 as well as the Pennsylvania Liquor Code.

Regulation of the milk industry in Pennsylvania was originally organized on a temporary basis by Act No. 37 of 1934 and Act No. 43 of 1935. This regulation was made permanent under Act No. 105, P.L. 417, Apr. 28, 1937, as amended. In 1968, the Milk Control Commission became the Milk Marketing Board.

On July 10, 1980, the Board's scope was broadened by addition of Act 104 of 1980, the Milk Producers' Security Fund Act.

The Board was created to supervise and regulate the entire milk industry of the Commonwealth, including production, manufacture, processing, storage, transportation, disposal, distribution, and sale of milk and milk products for the protection of the health and welfare of the inhabitants.

ADMINISTRATION

The Milk Marketing Board consists of three members, one of whom is designated as chair by the Governor. The members are appointed by the Governor with the consent of the Senate.

The Board regulates all aspects of marketing milk from the dairy farm to the consumer. Thus, it licenses milk haulers and processors, certifies milk weighers and samplers, verifies laboratory procedures, as well as establishing prices. With the advent of the Commonwealth Attorney's Act (Act No. 164 of 1980), the Board has exercised its option and retained a chief counsel. Producer security is now provided under Act 104.

One bureau and three divisions are maintained to properly supervise these varied functions.

Legal Division – Provides legal advice to the Board and the Board's staff; represents the Board in court; represents the staff in citation matters and price hearings; prepares regulations and official General Orders; and generally assists in the interpretation and enforcement of the laws administered by the Board.

Enforcement and Accounting Division – Represents the agency in the field. This Division implements all orders and policies of the Board and enforces compliance with the Milk Marketing Laws and Regulations. The Division also gathers and interprets financial and accounting information used by the Board in hearings and other administrative proceedings.

Support Services Division – Responsible for all central headquarters functions. This Division is responsible for all staff support functions of the agency including clerical and computer support. This Division consists of three units: Management Information Systems, Licensing and Bonding, and Administrative Services. Licensing is the major revenue generating source for the agency and the Bonding Unit administers the program that provides security for producer payments. The Board's computer database is maintained by the Management Information Systems Unit. All audit documents, license fee and bond calculations, delinquency reports, and numerous other reports needed for agency enforcement functions are generated through the computer system. The day-to-day necessities of the agency (procurement, budget, personnel, supplies, inventory, filing, telephones, travel) are provided by the Administrative Services Unit.

Bureau of Consumer Affairs – Consults with representatives of consumer groups; disseminates information relative to the activities of the Board; acts as a liaison to the General Assembly, and federal, state, and local agencies involved in the dairy industry and in milk marketing; supplies pertinent data to news media and other interested parties; and makes any recommendations found necessary as a result of such consultations with consumer groups.

The Pennsylvania Municipal Retirement System is a multi-agent public employee state retirement program created by the Pennsylvania General Assembly in 1974. Responsibility for the organization and administration of the System is vested in the 11-member Pennsylvania Municipal Retirement Board.

Since its inception with the passage of the Pennsylvania Municipal Retirement Law (Act of 1974, PL. 34, No. 15), the System has existed to administer sound, cost-effective pension plans on a contracted basis for local government employees. This includes accounting services, actuarial valuations, employee consulting, and asset management. Any Pennsylvania county, city, town, township, borough, municipal authority, or institution supported and maintained by a municipality may participate.

The System offers two benefit approaches: defined benefit and defined contribution. The annual benefit is dependent upon the individual municipality's contracted benefit package because the System offers flexible pension plan design based on each municipality's individual needs.

The Pennsylvania Municipal Retirement Board is comprised of members from the following positions and organizations: the State Treasurer and the Secretary of the Commonwealth serve by virtue of statute; eight members are appointed by the Governor after being nominated by their respective organizations — one member each represents the Pennsylvania League of Cities, Pennsylvania Municipal Authorities Association, Pennsylvania State Association of Boroughs, Pennsylvania State Association of County Commissioners, Pennsylvania State Association of Township Commissioners, Pennsylvania State Association of Township Supervisors, municipal firemen, and municipal police; one position is filled by a retired member of the Pennsylvania Municipal Retirement System. Interested individuals submit an application, and the Governor appoints someone from the list of applicants.

Chair: Vacant Vice Chair: Lorina L. Marshall-Blake Secretary/Treasurer: Nathan J. Zuckerman Members: Anita Fuhrman, Joan M. Garzarelli, William F. Goodrich, Roosevelt Hairston, Gary A. Merica, Cliff Rieders, Stanton N. Smullens, Marshall W. Webster

The Patient Safety Authority was established under Act 13 of 2002, the Medical Care Availability and Reduction of Error ("Mcare") Act, as an independent state agency ("a body corporate and politic"). It operates under an 11-member Board of Directors, six appointed by the Governor and four appointed by the Senate and House leadership. The chair is the Physician General, who is also a member of the Board.

The Authority is charged with taking steps to reduce and eliminate medical errors by identifying problems and recommending solutions that promote patient safety. Under Act 13, Pennsylvania hospitals, ambulatory surgical facilities and birthing centers must report all adverse medical events (called "serious events" in the Act) and near-misses (called "incidents" in the Act) through the Pennsylvania Patient Safety Reporting System (PA-PSRS), a secure, web-based data collection and analysis system. In turn, the Authority analyzes the data to identify trends; suggests improvements to enhance patient safety; and issues recommendations to medical facilities on a facility-specific or statewide basis for the purpose of reducing the number and severity of serious events and incidents. The Authority issues an Annual Report and quarterly and other Patient Safety Advisories, which are accessible on the Authority's website, and promotes patient safety and other best practices among healthcare facilities and providers.

The Authority's role is non-regulatory and non-punitive, distinguishing it from other state agencies involved in regulating and/or licensing health care facilities or individual providers.

The Authority is funded through the Patient Safety Trust Fund, moneys for which come from an annual surcharge on licensing fees charged to those medical facilities that are required to report to the Authority.

PHILADELPHIA REGIONAL PORT AUTHORITY

3460 North Delaware Avenue
Philadelphia, PA 19134

JAMES T. McDERMOTT JR.

Executive Director,
Philadelphia Regional Port Authority

James T. McDermott Jr., born Apr. 11, 1956, son of James T. McDermott Sr. and Mary Theresa Bradley; St. Joseph's Univ. (B.A.), 1977; Del. Law Sch. of Widener Univ. Executive Director, Philadelphia Regional Port Authority May 1994; married Susan McCrudden; 2 children.

The Philadelphia Regional Port Authority was established by an act of the General Assembly (Act of July 10, 1989, PL. 391, 55 PS. 697.1 et. seq.). As the successor agency to the Philadelphia Port Corporation, the independent authority is charged with the management, maintenance, promotion, and development of port facilities and port-related facilities and projects within an established regional port zone along the Delaware River. Its principal goals are to enhance waterborne commerce, promote economic growth, and create jobs. The Authority was created for the purpose of acquiring, holding, developing, constructing, improving, maintaining, managing, operating, financing, equipping, repairing, leasing or subleasing, and owning port facilities, port-related projects, or parts thereof, and equipment within the port district, as defined in the Act (the "Port District"); and assuming under, and to the extent of, the terms and conditions of an agreement between the Authority and the Philadelphia Port Corporation, the functions, rights, powers, duties, and obligations now or heretofore exercised by the corporation.

The Act provides that the powers of the Authority shall be exercised by a governing body composed of 11 members, four of whom shall be appointed by the Governor, one of whom shall be appointed by each of the following: the President Pro Tempore of the Senate, the Minority Leader of the Senate, the Speaker of the House of Representatives, and the Minority Leader of the House of Representatives. Three members of the Authority shall be appointed by the Governor, one from each list of at least three nominees, each list prepared and submitted by the Mayor of Philadelphia and the governing bodies of Delaware and Bucks Counties, Pennsylvania.

The Authority has broad powers to carry out its purposes including the power to acquire, purchase, hold, lease, transfer, and dispose of property; to borrow money and issue notes, bonds, and other evidence of indebtedness; and to service the payment of such bonds by pledge of its revenues, rentals, and receipts. The Authority has no power to pledge the credit or taxing power of the Commonwealth or any political subdivision thereof. No obligations of the Authority shall be deemed to be obligations of the Commonwealth or any political subdivision thereof. The Authority has no taxing power.

The Authority has the power to exercise its responsibilities throughout the Port District, which includes the counties of Bucks and Delaware and the City of Philadelphia, and is not subject to local zoning ordinances or regulations in so acting. The Authority has the power to eminent domain in furtherance of its purposes within a defined port zone in proximity to the Delaware River within the Port District.

The terms of the members of the Philadelphia Regional Port Authority are set by the Act, although all appointees serve at the pleasure of their respective appointing authorities. The appointees of the Governor initially have been appointed for one, two, three, and four-year terms, the terms of their successors thereafter being four years. The appointees by officers of the General Assembly serve currently with the terms of their respective appointing authorities, and the appointees named by the Governor from the City of Philadelphia and Bucks and Delaware Counties serve for two years. In the event of a vacancy, the appointing authority is required to appoint a replacement for the remainder of the unexpired term for which the vacancy exists. The Chair, who is appointed by the Governor from among all the members of the Authority, serves for a term of two years, or until his respective successor is appointed. The stated terms of the members of the Authority are as follows:

Executive Director, Port of Pittsburgh Commission Feb. 1994; married Haydee Ferreira; 3 children.

Created by Law 1992-133, the Port of Pittsburgh Commission promotes the commercial use and development of the inland waterway-intermodal transportation system and strives to integrate that system into the economic, recreational, environmental, and intermodal future of Southwestern Pennsylvania. The Commission serves an 11-county port district in Southwestern Pennsylvania on the navigable portions of the Allegheny, Monongahela, and Ohio Rivers, which includes Allegheny, Armstrong, Beaver, Butler, Clarion, Fayette, Greene, Indiana, Lawrence, Washington, and Westmoreland Counties. Tonnage figures from the Corps of Engineers for 2004 (most recent available) rank Pittsburgh as the 2nd largest inland port moving 41 million tons of cargo annually.

The Commission links manufacturers, shippers, and waterfront industrial developers with waterway transportation providers and links those groups with government and regulatory bodies to promote safe and efficient use of waterways transportation.

The Commission provides loans for waterway-related development and structures leased-back port bond financing for companies interested in locating or expanding in the 11-county port district.

An economic impact study, released in 2004, revealed that the Port of Pittsburgh generates nearly 218,000 jobs, including 45,000 direct jobs, and $1 billion in state and local taxes and $9.1 billion in local purchases.

The Commission has broad powers to carry out its purposes including the power to acquire, purchase, hold, lease, transfer, and dispose of property; to borrow money and issue notes, bonds, and other evidence of indebtedness; and to service the payment of such bonds by pledge of its revenues, rentals, and receipts. The Commission has no power to pledge the credit or taxing power of the Commonwealth or any political subdivision thereof. No obligations of the Commission shall be deemed to be obligations of the Commonwealth or any political subdivision thereof. The Commission has no taxing power.

The Board of the Port of Pittsburgh Commission consists of four legislative and 11 gubernatorial appointees, including four citizens at-large, three from nominees of the regional planning commission, one from counties not in the Commission, and one each from industry nominees from Waterways Council, the Waterways Association, and the River Terminal Operators' Association. The members serve at the pleasure of their respective appointing authority, may hold office until their successors have been appointed, and may succeed themselves. The members and the expiration of their office is as follows:

The Pennsylvania Board of Probation and Parole, an independent state correctional agency, was established by the Act of August 6, 1941, PL. 861, and amended by the Act of May 27, 1943, PL. 767; Act 501, December 27, 1965, PL. 1230; Act 134, October 9, 1986, PL. 1424; Act 164, December 18, 1996, PL. 1098; Act 143, December 21, 1998, PL. 1077; and Act 171, December 21, 1998, PL. 1298. This Act and its subsequent amendments established a uniform parole system and provided for assistance in the improvement of adult probation services in the Commonwealth.

Administration – The Board membership was increased in 1996 from five to nine full-time members. Members are appointed by the Governor, with the consent of a majority of the Senate members, to serve staggered, renewable, six-year terms. Board members are prohibited from engaging in any other employment or political activities.

Duties/Responsibilities – The Board is authorized by statute to grant parole and to supervise all offenders sentenced by the courts to a maximum sentence of two years or more; to revoke the parole of technical parole violators and those convicted of new crimes; and to release from parole persons under supervision who have served their entire sentence in compliance with the conditions governing their parole. The Board is also authorized to supervise offenders sentenced by the courts to imprisonment for less than two years where a request is made by the sentencing court, and to supervise offenders sentenced by other states where a request is made under the Interstate Compact for Adult Offender Supervision.

Guidelines have been established to structure the Board's discretion in making parole decisions, and consideration is given to factors such as the nature of the offense, prior criminal history, employment potential, emotional stability, history of family violence, adjustment to prison, and input from the sentencing judge, prosecuting attorney, and victims, and any other factors that may be relevant. Additionally, these factors are reviewed in light of the best interest of promoting the safety of the public.

The Board has the authority to revoke parole and return an individual to prison. Hearing procedures have been established to ensure that the parolee is provided adequate due process rights consistent with the decisions of the United States Supreme Court and the appellate Courts of Pennsylvania.

EXECUTIVE OFFICES

The Chair is the chief executive of the Board and is responsible for the overall administration of program operations and services. The Office of Chief Counsel serves as the legal advisor to the Board. Communications by the Board with the media, legislative offices, and the Governor's Office are handled by the Office of Legislative Affairs and Communications. The Board Secretary responds to inquiries relative to decisions and policies of the Board, records official case decisions of the Board, and reviews parole violation actions to insure compliance with Board policy. The Board Secretary also provides oversight to the hearing examiners who conduct parole hearings and interviews. The Office of Professional Responsibility performs background investigations and conducts internal affairs matters.

OFFICE OF PROBATION AND PAROLE SERVICES

This Office handles all institutional and field service functions of the agency and is responsible for the Board's mandate to assist in the improvement of adult probation services in the Commonwealth.

The Office provides instructions and assistance to inmates in preparation for the parole release process. As part of the preparation for parole interviews, staff compile a comprehensive packet of information on the inmates for review by the Board members and hearing examiners. Staff members also track parolees who are returned to a correctional facility as a result of parole violations, arrange for hearings, and assure compliance with due process proceedings of the Board.

The supervision of persons paroled by the Board, persons paroled to Pennsylvania from other states, and, where requested by the Court, persons sentenced to less than two years in prison, are also included in the duties of this Office. Parole supervision staff members are located in 10 district offices and 15 sub-offices. In addition to providing supervision of offenders, they conduct investigations of home and employment plans for the Board and conduct investigations for, and make recommendations to, the Board of Pardons.

Bureau of Central Services – Provides programmatic oversight for special projects, such as the Substance Abuse Violators Effort (S.A.V.E.), Violation Centers, Day Reporting Centers, Erie and York Re-entry Projects, Erie and Philadelphia Fugitive Apprehension Search Teams (F.A.S.T.) and Fatherhood Program; accreditation efforts; Interstate Services Division; and Operations Monitoring Center.

Bureau of Probation Services – Provides funding to county probation departments through a grant-in-aid program, establishes standards for the departments, and provides technical assistance and in-service training to county probation staff members. An Advisory Committee on Probation provides guidance to the Board in its work of improving adult probation services.

OFFICE OF MANAGEMENT SERVICES

The Office of Management Services provides administrative support for the Board's operations and its staff, including monitoring budgetary needs and requests, compliance with purchasing requirements, technology needs, human resource programs, and maintaining office facilities and vehicles.

Bureau of Human Resources – Oversees all matters regarding personnel, staff and county training, and equal employment opportunity issues. Additionally, the Board provides administrative support to the County Probation and Parole Officers' Firearm Education and Training Commission, which was established to provide uniform firearms training for county probation officers.

Bureau of Information Technology – Responsible for all aspects of automation for the Board, including but not limited to applications development services, establishment and maintenance of local area networks, and provision of technical support to agency staff members. This Bureau also researches and produces statistics on the Board's operations and programs.

Facilities Management Division – Manages and maintains the Board's Central Office building and other facilities as well as a large fleet of vehicles.

Fiscal Management Division – Responsible for all fiscal and budgetary concerns, including budget and contract preparation, monthly expenditures, and the availability of funds, purchasing, and contract preparation. This Division also provides budgetary research and financial analysis for the Board.

Anthony W. Salomone, born May 4, 1946, in New York City, son of Anthony W. and Jean Musillo Salomone; Sewanhaka H.S.; Kent State Univ. Officers Assn.; apptd. Executive Director, Public Employee Retirement Commission Mar. 1986; married Eve Marie; 2 daughters.

The Public Employee Retirement Commission was created by Act 66 of 1981, known as the Public Employee Retirement Commission Act (43 PS. §§1401-1411). The Commission is composed of nine members, five of whom are appointed by the Governor with the advice and consent of the Senate, and four of whom are appointed by the leaders of the General Assembly.

Under the Public Employee Retirement Commission Act, the Commission has two main responsibilities. One is to review legislation affecting public employee retirement systems; the other is to study, on a continuing basis, public employee retirement system policy as implemented at both the Commonwealth and local government levels, the interrelationships of the systems, and the actuarial soundness and costs of the systems.

The requirement that an actuarial note be attached to public employee pension and retirement bills prior to their second consideration in either house of the General Assembly makes the Commission an integral part of the process by which the General Assembly considers this legislation. The Commission's actuarial notes and the accompanying policy analyses provide a reliable estimate of both the immediate financial impact and the long-range actuarial effect of proposed legislation affecting public employee retirement systems. The Commission also provides technical assistance to and conducts studies for the General Assembly and the Governor in conjunction with their consideration of public pension legislation.

Acts 205 and 293 give the Commission substantial regulatory functions for the over 3,000 local government retirement systems in the state. The Act 293 program entails the preparation and submission of periodic employee pension system reports by all county governments. Act 205 gives the Commission regulatory functions for all municipal governments and authorities other than counties. These activities include requiring submission of biennial employee pension system reports, monitoring and enforcing compliance with a legislatively-mandated actuarial funding standard, and certifying municipal pension cost data annually to effect the allocation of over $190 million of state aid to municipalities. The Commission provides technical assistance to Pennsylvania municipal pension systems and private sector service providers. In the most recent reporting year for Act 205, the Commission contacted over 4,500 municipal governments and authorities to determine the status of their pension plan. Based on these initial contacts, more than 3,000 municipal pension plan reports were reviewed by the Commission for compliance with the mandates of Act 205, and the data was compiled, analyzed, and published.

The Commission formulates principles and objectives related to public employee pension policy and recommends legislation commensurate with that policy to the Governor and the General Assembly through the issuance of formal reports. The Commission also annually reviews the actuarial valuation reports of the three statewide pension systems, the State Employees' Retirement System, the Public School Employees' Retirement System and the Pennsylvania Municipal Retirement System, with the actuaries and the plan administrators of each system.

The State Public School Building Authority (SPSBA) is a public corporation and governmental instrumentality of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, created by the Act of July 5, 1947 (PL 1217) for the purpose of financing the construction and improvement of public schools, vocational/technical schools, community colleges, and intermediate units.

Since its establishment, SPSBA has issued over $4.3 billion in tax-exempt financing for Pennsylvania's public school districts, community colleges, vocational-technical schools, and intermediate units.

Administration – Under the Act, the Authority consists of the Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, the State Treasurer, the Auditor General, the Secretary of Education, the Secretary of General Services, the President Pro Tempore of the Senate, the Speaker of the House of Representatives, the Minority Leader of the Senate, and the Minority Leader of the House of Representatives. Pursuant to 24 PS. §791.3 of the Act, the President Pro Tempore of the Senate, the Speaker of the House of Representatives, the Minority Leader of the Senate, and the Minority Leader of the House of Representatives may designate a member of their respective legislative body to act as a member in their stead on the Authority Board.

SPSBA is administered by an Executive Director and staff. Accounting records are audited by a certified public accounting firm.

Financing – SPSBA is authorized to issue bonds for the purpose of financing capital projects for public schools, vocational/technical schools, intermediate units, and community colleges. SPSBA is the issuer of the bonds, with the school as the underlying credit. When a school finances through SPSBA, it has the flexibility to structure an issue to suit its individual needs while taking advantage of SPSBA's national recognition, expertise and services. SPSBA also refinances debt when appropriate.

Bonds may be sold by competitive bids or by private negotiated sale. Bonds issued by SPSBA are repaid under terms of loan agreements, leases or other debt instruments entered into between the school and SPSBA.

SPSBA administers a Revolving Fund Loan Program which allows schools to borrow money from SPSBA to finance small capital projects. These funds are loaned at a fixed rate of interest and usually for a period of time not to exceed five years.

Projects – School projects financed by SPSBA are designed by architects or engineers selected by the school. The school maintains and operates the facility upon completion. Under the provisions of the SPSBA Act and the Public School Code, all school projects must be approved by the Pennsylvania Department of Education (PDE). PDE establishes certain criteria that must be met, and approves the financial ability of the local school to make the payments which will be due to SPSBA. In the event of default of payments by the local school, PDE must, by law, withhold any subsidy due the school in an amount equal to the unpaid payment, and must then pay such amount to SPSBA. Projects financed for longer than five years and more than $100,000 must also be approved under the Local Government Unit Debt Act of the Department of Community and Economic Development.

The Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission (PUC) is an independent, quasi-judicial agency created by the legislature in 1937 to establish and maintain reasonable rates and safe, adequate service in the regulation of the state's public utilities.

The Commission, one of the nation's largest, is comprised of five full-time members appointed by the Governor for five-year staggered terms, and subject to confirmation by a majority vote of the Senate.

The Public Utility Commission's predecessor was the Public Service Commission (PSC). The PSC was created in 1913, and began operation in 1914, after the legislature found it could no longer administer or control rapidly increasing public utility services.

The mission of the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission is to ensure safe, reliable and reasonably priced electric, natural gas, water, telephone and transportation service for Pennsylvania consumers, by regulating public utilities and by serving as responsible stewards of competition. The Commission regulates about 6,200 utilities.

The Commission is focusing on rates, reliability and choice, to protect the public interest, promote economic development and preserve the environment.

In maintaining close scrutiny over utility service and facilities, the PUC is particularly concerned with safety and reliability. Utilities must report accidents to the Commission, which regularly inspects facilities to determine whether they are safe and adequate. Implementing a 1996 law, the Commission restructured the market for electricity generation and, implementing a 1999 law, natural gas supply. Customers now have the ability to choose from a number of suppliers or companies for their electricity or natural gas supply. However, customers still receive transmission and distribution services from their local utility. Local utilities are responsible for the maintenance and reliability of their systems.

The PUC, in a joint federal-state effort, places priority on the elimination of hazardous rail-highway grade crossings. In the interest of rail safety, the Commission examines the structural integrity of railroad bridges and underpasses. In addition, the PUC has a force of motor transportation investigators who make safety inspections and check on the cargo and certificated routes of truck, taxi and bus operators.

The Commission annually processes thousands of applications and other documents, including consumer complaints and questions about such subjects as amount of bills, fuel surcharges, billing procedures, late payments, penalties, meter readings, and general service problems.

The PUC, as of July 1, 2005, anticipates an authorized complement of 523 employees, including attorneys, rate and service analysts, auditors, economists, engineers, motor transit and railroad specialists, safety inspectors, and enforcement investigators. They work, together with administrative, fiscal, computer, clerical personnel and communications, in 12 offices and bureaus: Executive Director; Trial Staff; Special Assistants; Legislative Affairs; Transportation and Safety; Audits; Law; Fixed Utility Services; Secretary; Administrative Law Judge; Consumer Services; and Conservation, Economics, and Energy Planning.

The PUC is headquartered in Harrisburg, and has regional offices in Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Scranton and Altoona.

With the enactment of Act No. 33 (PL 90) House Bill No. 1180 on March 3, 1972, the Commission became fully funded by assessment of companies providing utility service in Pennsylvania. Subject to budgetary approval, the PUC may assess utilities up to three-tenths of 1 percent of gross intrastate revenue to cover the cost of regulation. Each utility is billed by the Commission for its share of an approved budget for the following fiscal year. All assessments and fees received, collected, or recovered under Act No. 33 are paid into the General Fund of the state Treasury through the Department of Revenue for use solely by the Commission. The Commission's state-funded budget for the Fiscal Year 2004-2005 is $44,916,000.

As a member of the National Association of Regulatory Utility Commissioners (NARUC), the PUC cooperates with other state and federal regulatory agencies in fulfilling its regulatory role.

Administration – The Commission consists of three commissioners appointed by the Governor with the advice and consent of the Senate, who hold office at the pleasure of the Governor and until their successors are duly appointed and qualified.

The Commission is responsible for administering the Pennsylvania Securities Act of 1972 (up P.S. §§1-101, et seq.; Act No. 284, adopted Dec. 5, 1972); the Act of May 15, 1933, (Act No. 113, P.L. 788; P.S. §§6051, et seq.); and the Takeover Disclosure Law of Pennsylvania (70 P.S. §§71-85; Act No. 19 of Mar. 3, 1976).

The primary purpose of the regulatory responsibilities and objectives described below is to protect the public from fraudulent practices in connection with the offer, sale, and purchase of securities in Pennsylvania while, at the same time, encouraging the financing of legitimate business and industry in the Commonwealth.

Office of the Secretary – Responsible for the official maintenance, certification, and custody of the Commission's public records and administrative files, public inspection of such records, and responding to public requests for information. It provides liaison with other state and federal agencies, press and public relations, as well as policy planning.

The Office of the Secretary administers the Securities Fraud Awareness Program, designed to educate the public about legitimate investment opportunities and how to recognize fraudulent, deceptive, or manipulative securities practices.

Office of Chief Counsel – Advises the Commission on legal matters and the statutes which it administers. The Office also provides legal and interpretative opinions and assists the Commission in setting regulatory policy; is responsible for drafting, monitoring, and reviewing legislation; and is responsible for the Division of Corporation Finance and the Division of Licensing.

Office of Chief Accountant – Responsible for the accounting review and financial analysis of all records and documents associated with Commission programs as well as the development of accounting policy and professional accounting advice to the Commission.

Division of Corporation Finance – Responsible for the review and analysis of all securities offerings filed with the Commission under the 1972 Act. The Division also reviews registration statements filed under the Takeover Disclosure Law of 1976 for takeover offers made for Pennsylvania corporations.

The Division administers an Entrepreneur Education Program which seeks to educate the small business community about raising capital through a securities offering. Informative brochures and staff assistance on specific problems are made available to entrepreneurs through this program.

Division of Enforcement, Litigation and Compliance – Examines and investigates su a sponte and those brought to its attention to determine whether any person has violated the 1972 Act or any Regulation, Rule, or Order promulgated thereunder. Where examination or investigation warrants a public proceeding, such proceedings are initiated through issuance of an order to show cause, an order to cease and desist, an order to cease advertising, or by the filing of a petition with Commonwealth Court or a Court of Common Pleas for injunctive relief, or by a referral for criminal prosecution.

Summary cease and desist orders are intended to protect investors by preventing or stopping persons from engaging in activities that violate any provision of the 1972 Act or any of its regulations, rules, and orders. Orders to show cause enable the Commission to determine whether activities or conduct described by Commission staff are violative of the 1972 Act, regulations, or rules. The Pennsylvania news media and the Internet are monitored for investment opportunities available to Pennsylvania residents which may be materially false or misleading.

Additionally, the Division is responsible for the field examinations of registered broker-dealer and investment adviser offices located within or outside Pennsylvania in order to determine whether a registrant is in compliance with the requirements of the 1972 Act or any of its regulations, rules, and orders. An emphasis in the examination is to ascertain whether Pennsylvania investors have been subject to abusive sales practices.

Activity is directed toward examinations of offices in this state which are not examined by any other federal or self-regulatory agency. The Division participates in joint, cooperative examinations conducted by other state and federal regulatory agencies.

In cases of non-compliance, the Commission may consider taking administrative action against a registrant which includes a censure, suspension, revocation of registration, or administrative assessment and, in the case of fraud, referral for criminal prosecution.

While the Division does not possess criminal prosecutorial authority, its investigations of alleged securities law violations may result in uncovering criminal activity. When requested, Division attorneys assist prosecutors in criminal cases and securities examiners and investigators, when requested, provide testimony at trial.

Division of Licensing – Responsible for the review and analysis of all applications for registration submitted by persons seeking to engage in business in Pennsylvania as broker-dealers, securities agents, investment advisers, and investment adviser representatives.

The 1972 Act requires that all such persons, unless exempt, must be registered by the Commission prior to engaging in such activities. The Act gives the Commission the authority to deny, suspend, or revoke any registration where the Commission deems it not to be in the public interest to permit such person to conduct business in Pennsylvania.

The Division is responsible for conducting background research on all applicants to determine the business conduct and qualifications of such persons prior to granting registration in Pennsylvania.

Division of Management Services – Principal functions include personnel management, information technology, budget, financial management, revenue management, purchasing, affirmative action, contract compliance, and all other general administrative and office services.

(By the Act of Apr. 13, 1927, The Securities Bureau was abolished and the Pennsylvania Securities Commission was created. The Commission was a departmental commission in the Banking Department until it was designated an independent commission by Acts 171 and 172 of 1976.)

DIANE DOMBACH

Executive Director, Sexual Offenders Assessment Board

Diane Dombach, born Mar. 14, 1949, in Lancaster, daughter of Robert and Joanne Dombach; Millersville Univ. (B.S.), psychology, 1971, (M.S.) clinical psychology, 1978; dep. dir., Lancaster Co. Assn. on Probation, Parole & Corrections; psychologist, employee assistance prog.; priv. pract., psychology; apptd. Executive Director, Sexual Offenders Assessment Board 1997.

Administration – The Sexual Offenders Assessment Board (SOAB) was created through a joint effort of the General Assembly and the Governor's Office following the Special Session on Crime, Act 24 of 1995 and amended by Act 46 of 1996, Act 18 of 2000 and Act 113 of 2000. This Act and its subsequent amendments established what is commonly known as Pennsylvania's "Megan's Law," which requires the registration and assessment by the SOAB of all sex offenders convicted under the law.

Powers and Duties – The SOAB is responsible for conducting evaluations of sexual offenders so that the court may determine if they are sexually violent predators. It is also required by statute to approve the treatment of sexually violent predators upon their release from prison. The SOAB is also empowered by statute to assess sexual offenders and sexually violent predators for the Pennsylvania Board of Probation and Parole consideration. Under Act 21 of 2003, signed into law on November 24, 2003, the SOAB is responsible for the assessment of certain adjudicated adolescent sex offenders, for court-ordered involuntary civil commitment. Individuals committed under Act 21 of 2003 are in need of treatment due to a mental abnormality or personality disorder that results in serious difficulty in controlling sexually violent behavior. Act 24 mandated that the SOAB be housed in the Pennsylvania Board of Probation and Parole for support services.

By statute, the SOAB is staffed by psychiatrists, psychologists, and criminal justice professionals, all trained in the evaluation and treatment of sexual offenders. They are appointed by the Governor and serve four-year terms. The SOAB is supported by an Executive Director, who serves as the administrator of the Board, Sexual Offender Investigators, and administrative staff. The investigators are responsible for the production of a very thorough and specialized investigation that covers the life span of the convicted sexual offender, and work closely with victim services offices throughout the Commonwealth.

STATE EMPLOYEES' RETIREMENT SYSTEM

ERIC HENRY

Executive Director, State Employees' Retirement System

Eric Henry, born Apr. 4, 1966, in Altoona, son of Mary Lou and the late Edwin P. Henry; Penn State Univ. (B.S.), acctg., 1988; Bucknell Univ. (M.B.A.), 1994; exec. dir., New Hampshire Retirement System, 2000-04; apptd. Executive Director, Pennsylvania State Employees' Retirement System June 2004; married Valerie A.

Chair: Nicholas J. Maiale Members: Michael J. Acker, Gibson E. Armstrong, Robert A. Bittenbender, Robert P. Casey Jr., David R. Fillman, Robert W. Godshall, Raphael Musto, Thomas G. Paese, M. Joseph Rocks, Michael R. Veon

SERS was established by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in 1923. SERS' enabling legislation, the State Employees' Retirement Code, was recodified in 1959 and again in 1974. Significant amendments to the Retirement Code were enacted in 2001. The SERS Board is charged with administering two retirement plans: (1) a cost-sharing multiple-employer defined benefit plan; and (2) an Internal Revenue Code Section 457 deferred compensation plan, which is a defined contribution plan. These plans serve the employees of the Commonwealth and certain independent agencies.

SERS' defined benefit plan serves approximately 200,000 active and retired members. With $27 billion in assets, it is one of the 30 largest public pension funds in the nation. SERS was chosen as the nation's outstanding large public pension plan for 2004, receiving the Large Public Plan of the Year Award in the Fourth Annual Public Pension Awards Program.

SERS employs 195 people. It is headquartered in Harrisburg, Pennsylvania and operates seven regional field offices throughout the Commonwealth.

THE STATE EMPLOYEES' RETIREMENT BOARD

The Retirement Code establishes the Board as an independent administrative board, which has the authority to make all decisions with respect to the implementation of the Retirement Code and the management of the State Employees' Retirement Fund.

As specified by the Retirement Code, the Board consists of 11 members: the State Treasurer, ex officio, two state Senators, two members of the state House of Representatives, and six members appointed by the Governor, one of whom must be an annuitant of SERS, subject to confirmation by the state Senate.

The Retirement Code vests the Board with responsibility for managing SERS. There are four areas of responsibility: (1) administration; (2) benefits; (3) funding; and (4) investments.

Administration – One of the most important duties of the Board with respect to the day-to-day administration of SERS is the appointment of the Executive Director and Board Secretary, who is designated by the Retirement Code as the chief administrative officer of SERS. The Retirement Board delegates to the Executive Director responsibility for almost all administrative functions.

The agency is organized into six offices: the Executive Office, the Office of Financial Management, the Legal Office, the Office of Member Services, the Office of Information Technology, and the Investment Office. The head of each office, other than the Legal Office, reports to the Executive Director.

Benefits – The Retirement Code sets forth the benefit structure for SERS' defined benefit plan in great detail. There are numerous types of benefits available under the Retirement Code: a normal retirement benefit (called a "superannuation annuity"), an early retirement benefit (called a "withdrawal annuity"), a disability annuity, a death benefit, and a return of the member's contributions and the interest earned thereon.

Normal retirement age for most members is age 60 or the age at which the member attains 35 years of credited service, whichever occurs first.

Funding – SERS' defined benefit plan is funded through three sources: (1) employee contributions; (2) employer contributions; and (3) investment earnings.

Pursuant to the Retirement Code, most Commonwealth employees contribute to the Retirement Fund at the rate of 6.25 percent of their gross compensation.

The amount contributed annually to the Retirement Fund by the Commonwealth and the independent agencies as employer contributions is determined each year by the Board with the assistance of SERS' actuary, pursuant to the requirements of the Retirement Code. The amount of employer contributions is expressed as a percentage of payroll.

Investments – The goal of the investment program is to earn as high a rate of return on the Retirement Fund as possible, with appropriate levels of risk and liquidity. The Retirement Code provides that the members of the Board have exclusive control and management of the Retirement Fund, with full power to invest the same under the "prudent investor" standard.

Reference – Visit www.sers.state.pa.us for a complete description of SERS' governance and programs and an on-line copy of SERS Member Handbook 2005, which discusses both the defined benefit and defined contribution plans. Call 1-800-633-5461 to request a hard copy of SERS Member Handbook 2005.

The Pennsylvania State System of Higher Education (PASSHE), created by Act 188 of 1982, comprises 14 publicly owned universities in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. Established on July 1, 1983, PASSHE is guided by a 20-member Board of Governors, 11 of whom are appointed by the Governor of Pennsylvania and confirmed by the Senate. The Board also includes the governor or his designee, the secretary of education or his designee, four legislators and three students from PASSHE universities.

The Chancellor is appointed by the Board of Governors and serves as the chief executive officer of PASSHE. The Chancellor is responsible to the Board for the overall administration of all facets of the System. Under the Chancellor's direction, the university presidents, line officers, and support staff provide System-wide management in such areas as academic policy and planning, business affairs, faculty and staff affairs, legislative policy, institutional research, legal affairs, capital planning, equal educational opportunities, and advancement.

As established by the founding legislation, the primary mission of the Pennsylvania State System of Higher Education “... is the provision of instruction for undergraduate and graduate students to and beyond the master's degree in the liberal arts and sciences, and in the applied fields, including the teaching profession.”

The state universities spent the first 100 years of existence training teachers for Pennsylvania's K-12 schools. The Normal School Act of 1857 established regional teacher training institutions throughout the Commonwealth. The School Code of 1911 called for the state purchase of all normal schools, and by 1921 the current configuration of 14 publicly owned universities was established. The 14 normal schools evolved from state normal schools, to state teachers colleges, to state colleges. When Act 188 created the Pennsylvania State System of Higher Education, the 13 former state colleges joined Indiana University of Pennsylvania to achieve university status.

The 14 state-owned universities are Bloomsburg, California, Cheyney, Clarion, East Stroudsburg, Edinboro, Indiana, Kutztown, Lock Haven, Mansfield, Millersville, Shippensburg, Slippery Rock and West Chester Universities of Pennsylvania. PASSHE universities also operate four branch campuses in Oil City (Clarion), Kittanning and Punxsutawney (Indiana) and Clearfield (Lock Haven), and several education centers, including the McKeever Environmental Learning Center and the Dixon University Center in Harrisburg. PASSHE has a combined university campus of 4,698 acres. The physical plant includes 862 buildings for classrooms, residences, and administrative offices and student support services.

The approximately 106,000 students who attend the Pennsylvania State System of Higher Education universities study in associate, baccalaureate, master's, and doctoral programs. The universities are fully accredited by the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. Academic programs are also individually accredited by appropriate national professional organizations.

The State Tax Equalization Board (STEB) is an independent administrative board created by Act 447 of 1947, P.L. 1046, as amended. The Board consists of three members appointed by the Governor for terms of four years. The chair is designated by the Governor. The Board performs several functions:

Market Value — The primary function of the Board is to determine annually the aggregate market value of taxable real property in each political subdivision and school district throughout the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. Legislative restrictions as stipulated in Section 7 (3) and Section 14 of Act 447, determine the computation procedure to be used in an odd or even year.

The market values are certified annually to the Department of Education and the respective school districts on or before July 1 of each year. These market values are used by the Department of Education as one factor in a legislative formula for the distribution of state subsidies to each school district.

School districts aggrieved by any findings or conclusions of the Board may appeal said findings through appropriate board hearings as set forth in Section 13 of Act 447, as amended. Objections are to be filed on or before October 1 in the year certified according to Regulation No. 1 of the State Tax Equalization Board. The Board conducts informal and formal hearings.

Common Level Ratio — This function of the Board is to establish a common level ratio of assessed value to selling price for each county for the prior calendar year.

Act 267 of 1982 requires the State Tax Equalization Board to use statistically-acceptable techniques, to make the methodology for computing ratios public, and to certify the ratio to the chief assessor of each county each year.

Common Level Ratio appeals may be filed with the STEB. Fixed Asset Accounting and Reporting Management Directive 310.4 designates STEB personnel as the appraisal staff for administering and maintaining, on an as-needed basis, a continuing program of valuation services for Commonwealth General Fixed Asset Real Property.

Assn. of Intercollegiate Football Officials; consultant/chief of staff, Cong. Ron Klink; apptd. Chief Executive Director, Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission Feb. 2003; married Jeanne; 2 children.

The Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission was created in 1937 by the Pennsylvania State Legislature, Act No. 211, with authority to construct, finance, operate, and maintain a toll highway. The Turnpike officially opened October 1, 1940, carrying traffic over a 160-mile section between Middlesex, Cumberland County to Irwin, Westmoreland County. Four major extension projects during the 1950s expanded the Turnpike from the Ohio state line to the New Jersey border and from Norristown to Scranton. Act 61 of 1985 authorized the Commission to construct new highways and make other improvements to the existing system. The widening of the Turnpike to six lanes between the Northeastern Extension and the Delaware River Bridge Interchange was completed in 1987. Other projects that have been completed include the second Lehigh Tunnel in 1991; the James E. Ross Highway (Beaver Valley Expressway) and the Mid-County Interchange (connects I-476/Blue Route to Turnpike) in 1992; the Amos K. Hutchinson Bypass (Greensburg Bypass) in 1993; and the Keyser Avenue Interchange in 1995. The Mon/Fayette Expressway and Southern Beltway projects, are in various stages of operation, design and construction. Two of four sections of the Mon/Fayette Expressway are open to traffic, while two are in final design. One section of the Southern Beltway is under construction with two in the environmental study process. The I-95/Turnpike Interchange project is presently in preliminary design.

The Commission consists of five members, four of whom are appointed by the Governor and confirmed by the Senate of Pennsylvania for four-year terms. The fifth member is the State Secretary of Transportation.

COURTS OF THE COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA

BRIEF HISTORY, COMPOSITION, AND POWERS AND DUTIES

Pennsylvania's judiciary began as a disparate collection of courts, some inherited from the reign of the Duke of York and some established by William Penn. They were mostly local, mostly part-time, and mostly under control of the governor. All of them were run by non-lawyers. And though the Provincial Appellate Court was established in 1684, no court could be called the court of final appeal. Final appeals had to be taken to England.

Several attempts were made in the early years of the eighteenth century to establish a court of final appeal in Pennsylvania and to further improve and unify the colony's judicial system, but because the crown had final veto power over all colonial legislation, these attempts proved futile. Finally, in 1727 the crown sanctioned a bill that had been passed five years earlier. The Judiciary Act of 1722 was the colony's first judicial bill with far-reaching impact. It established the Pennsylvania Supreme Court, providing for a chief justice and two justices, who would sit twice yearly in Philadelphia and ride the circuit at other times; and it created the Court of Common Pleas in Philadelphia, Bucks, and Chester Counties.

The court system in Pennsylvania did not change again until the Pennsylvania Constitution of 1776. By establishing the Courts of Sessions, Courts of Common Pleas, and Orphans' Courts in each county, the Constitution allowed Pennsylvania to see the beginning of a statewide framework for the development of its judicial system.

A new constitution in 1790 encouraged further development in the Commonwealth's judicial system by grouping counties into judicial districts and placing president judges at the heads of the districts' Common Pleas Courts. This was meant to ease the Supreme Court's rapidly increasing workload. Constitutional changes in 1838 and 1874 and a constitutional amendment in 1850 effected changes in the jurisdiction, tenure, and election or appointment of members of the judiciary. In 1895 the General Assembly created the Superior Court to further ease the work of the Supreme Court, giving each appellate court separate jurisdictions.

The Constitution of 1968 initiated the most sweeping changes in Pennsylvania's judiciary in nearly a century, creating the Commonwealth Court to reduce the workload of the Superior and Supreme Courts by hearing cases brought against and by the Commonwealth; substantially altering the minor court system; and reorganizing the judiciary into the Unified Judicial System, consisting of the Supreme, Superior, and Commonwealth Courts; Common Pleas Courts; Philadelphia Municipal Court; Philadelphia Traffic Court; and magisterial district courts, with provisions for any future courts the law might establish.

Both judicially and administratively, the Supreme Court is, by constitutional definition, Pennsylvania's highest court. In matters of law, it is the Commonwealth's court of last resort. In matters of administration, the Supreme Court is responsible for maintaining a single, integrated judicial system and has supervisory authority over all other state courts.

In 1980, the Legislature approved a decrease in the Supreme Court's mandated jurisdiction by expanding that of the Superior Court. Consequently, the Pennsylvania Supreme Court, like the United States Supreme Court, can now exercise discretion in accepting or rejecting most appeals, allowing it to devote greater attention to cases of far-reaching impact, as well as to its constitutional obligation to administer the entire judicial system.

Judges: Qualifications, Election, Tenure, Vacancies

Before justices and judges can be appointed or elected to their positions, they must meet certain basic requirements such as citizenship and residency. In addition, all but magisterial district judges and Philadelphia Traffic Court judges must be members of the Bar of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court.

Jurists are also subject to strict standards of conduct, and they may be removed, suspended, or otherwise disciplined for misconduct in office. These standards are specified in the Pennsylvania Constitution; the "Code of Judicial Conduct" in the Pennsylvania Rules of Court, which applies to appellate and trial court judges; the "Rules of Conduct, Office Standards and Civil Procedures for Magisterial District Judges"; and such other court rules and orders as have been promulgated by the state Supreme Court.

Judicial elections occur in odd-numbered years. With the exception of some special courts judges, all justices and judges within the Unified Judicial System are elected to 10-year terms. Magisterial district judges and judges of the Philadelphia Traffic Court are elected to terms of six years. Vacancies occurring before an election may be filled by gubernatorial appointment, subject to Senate confirmation, until such time as an election is held.

Judges and justices may serve an unlimited number of terms and are reelected at the pleasure of the electorate. The "merit retention" provision of Pennsylvania's constitution allows them to run for reelection on a "yes-no" vote, without ballot reference to political affiliation. This provision was designed to remove judges from the pressures of the political arena once they begin their first terms of office.

Mandatory retirement age for judges is 70 years, but retired judges may, with the approval of the Supreme Court, continue to serve the Commonwealth as senior judges. This service helps ease court backlogs. Effective January 1, 1999, all Common Pleas and minor court judges (except those serving as senior judges prior to this rule change) may serve as senior judges until they reach the age of 75. Effective January 6, 2003, those jurists not affected by this change (appellate court jurists and those Common Pleas and minor court judges already serving) may serve until they reach the age of 80.

Chief Justice and President Judges

President judges are elected or appointed in each district's Common Pleas Court, in the Commonwealth and Superior Courts, and in the Philadelphia Municipal and Traffic Courts. In courts with seven or fewer judges, the judge with the longest continuous service holds this position. The same is true for the Chief Justice of Pennsylvania. The one exception to this rule is the president judge of the Philadelphia Traffic Court, who is appointed by the Governor. In courts of eight or more judges, the president judge is elected to a single five-year term by his or her peers. The president judge may not serve consecutive terms, but may serve nonconsecutive ones.

Jurisdiction

A court's jurisdiction refers to those cases a court has authority to hear and/or decide. Original jurisdiction cases are those heard in the first instance; appellate jurisdiction cases are those heard on appeal from a lower court.

The Judicial Code (42 Pa. Consolidated Statutes) provides for the organization and jurisdiction of all courts within the Unified Judicial System.

Additionally, under the Constitution of 1968, the Supreme Court is empowered to assign and reassign classes of actions or appeals among the several courts "as the needs of justice shall require."

THE SUPREME COURT

History

Established by the Provincial Assembly's Judiciary Act of May 22, 1722, the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania is the oldest appellate court in the nation, predating the United States Supreme Court by 67 years.

It is the highest court of the Commonwealth and the repository of the supreme judicial power of the state.

Since its creation, the court has experienced a number of changes in its structure, including the number of justices presiding, the appointment or election of justices, jurists' qualifications and tenure, and the court's jurisdiction. The 1722 Act established a court composed of one chief justice and two associate justices who would hold two court sessions a year in Philadelphia and ride circuit at other times to try cases throughout the colony. In 1767 the number of justices was increased to four. In 1809 the number was reduced from four to three. In 1826 it was increased again, this time to five justices; and in 1874 it was increased one more time, to seven, where it presently stands.

The Supreme Court was given constitutional status under the Constitution of 1776, which also provided for appointment of justices by the president of the Provincial Council to seven-year terms, removable for "misbehavior." The Constitution of 1790 provided for life tenure based on "good behavior." The Constitution of 1838 fixed tenure at 15 years. An 1850 constitutional amendment made the entire judiciary elective, a standard that prevails today. The Constitution of 1874 increased justices' tenure to 21 years, established a limited original jurisdiction for the Court, and assured minority party representation on the court by designating the method of electing justices.

The Constitution of 1968, in establishing the Unified Judicial System, gave the Supreme Court broad supervisory and administrative powers over that system. (See Court Administration.) Additionally, it fixed the tenure of justices at 10 years. In 1980 the legislature approved a decrease in the Supreme Court's mandated jurisdiction by expanding that of the Superior Court. Consequently, the Pennsylvania Supreme Court, like the United States Supreme Court, can now exercise discretion in accepting or rejecting appeals, allowing it to devote greater attention to cases of far-reaching impact, as well as to its constitutional obligation to administer the entire judicial system.

Composition

The Supreme Court of Pennsylvania is composed of seven justices elected to 10-year terms. The justice with the longest continuous service presides as Chief Justice. Vacancies on the court are filled by gubernatorial appointment, subject to Senate confirmation or by election.

Jurisdiction

The Supreme Court's jurisdiction encompasses four main areas: original, appellate, exclusive, and extraordinary.

The Supreme Court holds original (but not exclusive) jurisdiction in cases of habeas corpus; mandamus, or prohibition to courts of inferior jurisdiction; and quo warranto concerning any officer of statewide jurisdiction.

The Supreme Court's appellate jurisdiction includes those cases it hears at its own discretion and various types of cases heard as a matter of right. These latter cases include appeals of cases originating in Commonwealth Court and appeals of certain final orders issued by either the Common Pleas Courts or specific constitutional and judicial agencies.

Appeals from final orders of Common Pleas Courts include cases involving matters prescribed by general rule; the right to public office; matters where the qualifications, tenure, or right to serve or the manner of service of any member of the judiciary is in question; supersession of a district attorney by the attorney general or by a court; matters where the right or power of the Commonwealth or any political subdivision to create or issue indebtedness is in question; statutes and rules held unconstitutional by the Courts of Common Pleas; and matters where the right to practice law is involved.

The Supreme Court has exclusive jurisdiction of appeals from the following boards/commissions: the Legislative Reappointment Commission; the Minor Judiciary Education Board, which certifies magisterial district judges and Philadelphia Traffic Court judges who are not members of the Pennsylvania bar; the Pennsylvania Board of Law Examiners, which oversees admittance to the Pennsylvania bar; the Disciplinary Board of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, which investigates the conduct of Pennsylvania bar members; and, to a limited degree, the Court of Judicial Discipline, which investigates the conduct of jurists.

The court also has exclusive jurisdiction of appeals from Common Pleas Court involving the death penalty. Such cases are automatically appealed to the Supreme Court.

Under its power of extraordinary jurisdiction, the court may assume jurisdiction of any case pending before a lower court involving an issue of immediate public importance. This it can do on its own or upon petition from any party.

THE SUPERIOR COURT

History

Pennsylvania's Superior Court was created by the General Assembly in 1895 to ease the burden of the Supreme Court, thus giving Pennsylvania two appellate courts with separate jurisdictions. The court became a constitutionally-mandated court when it was incorporated in the Constitution of 1968.

Composition

The original Superior Court was comprised of seven members. A constitutional amendment passed in 1979 increased this number to 15. The amendment also altered the method by which the Superior Court president judge is selected, providing that he/she be elected by vote of the judges rather than attain the office by accruing the longest consecutive service on the court. This provision, however, was not implemented until 1986, according to provisions of the amendment. As with other judges, Superior Court judges serve 10-year terms.

Jurisdiction

Because the Superior Court's main function is as an appeals court, its original jurisdiction is limited. Such jurisdiction includes mainly applications made by the attorney general and district attorneys under the Wiretapping and Electronic Surveillance Control Act.

As an appeals court, the Superior Court's jurisdiction is less specialized than the Commonwealth Court's; therefore, it hears a wide variety of petitions, both criminal and civil, from Common Pleas Courts. Such petitions include all manner of cases, from child custody to armed robbery to breach of contract.

THE COMMONWEALTH COURT

History

The Commonwealth Court came into existence on January 1, 1970, having been created by the Constitution of 1968. The Constitutional Convention intent was to create a court which would not only serve as a third appellate court, thus reducing the workload of the Supreme and Superior Courts, but also a court which would hear and try initial jurisdiction cases involving actions by or against the Commonwealth.

Beginning in 1870, actions brought by or against the Commonwealth were heard by the Dauphin County Court of Common Pleas, which sits in Harrisburg. Over the years, however, the growth of state agencies and the corresponding rise in litigation involving the Commonwealth created an increasingly heavy caseload for the court's Commonwealth docket. The need for a new and separate court to handle such matters as well as provide an appellate court for government-related appeals became apparent.

Composition

Though the Constitutional Convention provided for the creation of the Commonwealth Court, it left the structure and jurisdiction of the court to the General Assembly. The resulting Commonwealth Court Act of 1970 provided for a court of seven judges, elected to 10-year terms. In 1980 an amendment to the Judicial Code increased the number of judges to nine.

Jurisdiction

Commonwealth Court has both original and appellate jurisdiction. Its original jurisdiction includes civil actions brought against the Commonwealth government or an officer of the government, usually seeking equitable relief or declaratory judgment and not damages; civil actions brought by the Commonwealth government (note: these could also be brought in the Courts of Common Pleas); and matters under the Election Code involving statewide offices.

Its appellate jurisdiction includes appeals relating to decisions made by most state administrative agencies and appeals from the Courts of Common Pleas involving actions against the Commonwealth that could not be initiated in Commonwealth Court; actions by the Commonwealth that could have been commenced in Commonwealth Court; some appeals from decisions of the Liquor Board and the Department of Transportation; most local government matters other than contract matters, including actions for damages, eminent domain proceedings, and matters involving the internal affairs of non-profit corporations.

COURTS OF COMMON PLEAS

History

Courts of Common Pleas are Pennsylvania's courts of general trial jurisdiction. They have existed in Pennsylvania at least since the Constitution of 1776, under which they received constitutional status.

Prior to the Constitution of 1968, in addition to Courts of Common Pleas, there existed Courts of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery, Quarter Sessions of the Peace and Orphans' Courts. The new Constitution abolished these latter separate courts and incorporated them into existing Common Pleas Courts.

Composition

The Common Pleas Courts are organized into 60 judicial districts that generally follow the geographic boundaries of the Commonwealth's counties; however, seven of the districts are comprised of two counties. Each district has from one to 93 judges. Judges are elected to 10-year terms.

Jurisdiction

Common Pleas Courts have original jurisdiction over all cases not exclusively assigned to another court and appellate jurisdiction over judgments from the special courts. They also hear appeals from certain state and most local government agencies.

SPECIAL COURTS

Special Courts, also called minor courts, are the first level of courts in Pennsylvania's Unified Judicial System. For many Pennsylvanians they are the first, and often the only, courts they will ever encounter. In counties other than Philadelphia, these courts are presided over by magisterial district judges, formerly known as justices of the peace and then district justices.

Magisterial District Courts

Cases in magisterial district courts are heard by magisterial district judges. Magisterial district judges have authority to conduct non-jury trials concerning criminal summary matters not involving delinquent acts as defined in 42 Pa.C.S., §6301 et seq.; conduct non-jury trials concerning civil claims (unless the claim is against a Commonwealth party as defined in 42 Pa. C.S., §8501) where the amount in controversy does not exceed $8,000, exclusive of interests and costs in the following classes of actions: landlord-tenant actions, assumpsit actions unless they involve a contract where the title to the real estate may be in question, trespass actions, and fines and penalties by any government agency; preside over preliminary arraignments and preliminary hearings; fix and accept bail except in cases involving murder or voluntary manslaughter; issue arrest warrants; accept guilty pleas to the charge of driving under the influence (75 Pa. C.S.A., §3731) so long as it is a first offense, no personal injury occurred to a third party other than the defendant's immediate family, property damage to any third party is less than $500 and the defendant is not a juvenile; preside over non-jury trials involving all offenses under title 34 (relating to game); accept guilty pleas to misdemeanors of the third degree in certain circumstances.

As of January 3, 2006, the complement of magisterial district courts totals 544; however, with the decennial realignment required by Pennsylvania's constitution, that number will change slightly in January of 2006 and 2008 as some offices are opened and others are eliminated as scheduled upon the term expirations or mandatory retirements of the respective sitting judges. The total judges as of January 7, 2008, will be 546.

Philadelphia's and Pittsburgh's Courts

Philadelphia has two special courts, the Municipal Court and the Traffic Court. Philadelphia Municipal Court is Pennsylvania's only special court that is a court of record and, unlike the other minor courts, its 25 members must be lawyers. The Municipal Court has jurisdiction over all criminal offenses other than summary traffic offenses that are punishable by a term of imprisonment not exceeding five years. Otherwise, it has jurisdiction similar to that of magisterial district judges, except that civil actions in that court are limited to those cases where the amount claimed does not exceed $10,000.

The Philadelphia Traffic Court is composed of seven judges. It has jurisdiction over all summary offenses under the Motor Vehicle Code (Title 75, Pa. C.S.) and offenses under city ordinances enacted pursuant to the Vehicle Code.

Neither magisterial district judges nor Philadelphia Traffic Court (PTC) judges must be attorneys, but those who are not must take a course and pass a qualifying examination before taking office. The judges must also take 32 hours of continuing education each year while they remain in office.

The special courts hold no jury trials. Pleas from special court judgments, however, may be taken to the county Common Pleas Court, where the case is heard de novo, or anew.

With the decennial realignment of district courts, the president judge of Allegheny County requested that the Supreme Court suspend operation of the Pittsburgh Magistrates Court pending an evaluation to gauge the feasibility of transitioning the court into the statewide magisterial district court system. By order dated December 30, 2002 (amended order February 18, 2003), the Supreme Court granted this request. Currently sitting magistrates continued to serve until their terms expired, and all appointments/reappointments were suspended. With Supreme Court order No. 212 Magisterial Docket No. 1, dated November 29, 2004, the court was eliminated effective January 1, 2005, with its jurisdiction being absorbed into the Allegheny County magisterial district court system.

Minor Judiciary Education Board

Article V of the Constitution and provisions of the Judicial Code (42 Pa. C.S.) require individuals seeking to take office as magisterial district judges or Philadelphia Traffic Court judges to be certified as qualified to perform the duties of the office. Pursuant to 42 Pa. C.S., §31, the responsibility for this falls on the Minor Judiciary Education Board.

The board is responsible for instructing and certifying individuals wishing to become magisterial district judges, Philadelphia Traffic Court judges, or Philadelphia bail commissioners. It approves the curriculum, appoints and evaluates instructors, establishes course content, reviews all tests, and issues certificates to successful program participants. In addition, the board conducts continuing education for magisterial district judges, senior magisterial district judges, Philadelphia Traffic Court judges, senior Philadelphia Traffic Court judges, Philadelphia bail commissioners, and for those individuals who wish to maintain a current certification in one or more of these three areas.

The basic magisterial district judge certification course of instruction is four weeks in duration. General subject areas covered include criminal law; civil law; evidence; judicial procedure and administration; motor vehicle law; the Controlled Substance, Drug, Device and Cosmetic Act; and ethics. The basic Philadelphia Traffic Court judge course of instruction is 20 hours in length and general subject areas covered include evidence, judicial procedure and administration, motor vehicle law, and ethics. In addition, the board annually revises the curriculum for the mandated continuing education program for all magisterial district judges, Philadelphia Traffic Court judges, and Philadelphia Bail Commissioners.

The board is composed of seven members appointed by the Governor, subject to Senate confirmation.

COURT ADMINISTRATION

Administrative Office of Pennsylvania Courts

Article V of the Constitution of 1968 established the Supreme Court's general supervisory and administrative authority over all courts in the Commonwealth, including the power to temporarily assign judges from one court or district to another; to assign or reassign classes of actions or appeals among the several courts; and to prescribe the practice, procedures, and conduct of all courts and officers thereof. The Court was also mandated to appoint a state court administrator.

As supervisor of the Administrative Office of Pennsylvania Courts, the Court Administrator of Pennsylvania is responsible for the prompt and proper disposition of the business of all courts. Among the functions of the Administrative Office are reviewing practices, procedures, and efficiency at all levels of the court system and in all related offices; developing recommendations to the Supreme Court regarding improvement of the system and related offices; representing the Judicial System before legislative bodies; collecting statistical data; examining the state of the dockets and making recommendations for expediting litigation; managing fiscal affairs, including budget preparation, disbursements approval, and goods and services procurement; supervising all administrative matters relating to offices engaged in clerical functions; maintaining personnel records; conducting education programs for system personnel; receiving and responding to comments from the public; publishing an annual report; and providing legal services to system personnel.

Related Court Agencies

Also within the aegis of the Supreme Court are the court committees and related court agencies, which help establish judicial policy, formulate rules of court procedure, investigate charges of misconduct, and establish standards for the practice of law in Pennsylvania. These committees and agencies are the Judicial Council; Appellate Court Procedural Rules, Civil Procedural Rules, Criminal Procedural Rules, Domestic Relations Procedural Rules, Juvenile Court Procedural Rules, Minor Court Rules, and Orphans' Court Procedural Rules Committees; the Pennsylvania Board of Law Examiners; the Committee for Proposed Standard Jury Instructions; the Committee on Rules of Evidence; the Continuing Legal Education Board; the Disciplinary Board of the Supreme Court; the Interest on Lawyers Trust Account Board; the Minor Judiciary Education Board; and the Pennsylvania Lawyers Fund for Client Security.

Independent of the Supreme Court is the Judicial Auditing Agency, which annually audits the financial affairs of the Unified Judicial System and makes the audits available to the executive and legislative branches of government and to the public.

JUDICIAL CONDUCT BOARD

Created by a constitutional amendment in 1993, the Board consists of 12 members: six appointed by the Governor and six appointed by the Supreme Court. Half of the members appointed by either authority may be registered in the same political party and all are limited to four consecutive years of service. A Chairperson, Vice-Chairperson, and Secretary are elected annually. The Board has the constitutional authority to consider a complaint, from any source, that a Pennsylvania judicial officer has engaged in ethical misconduct or has a mental or physical disability that substantially impairs the performance of judicial duties.

An investigation may commence based upon information received from any reliable source including anonymous contacts, media reports, and referrals from other agencies. Most investigations are based on complaints received from named individuals. A complaint from a named individual must be verified and state the allegations upon which it is based. All complaints are referred to chief counsel who reviews the allegations of the complaint. After a complaint is docketed, the Board, through its staff, conducts a preliminary inquiry. Upon completion of the preliminary inquiry, counsel submits the information gathered for the Board's review. At this stage, the Board may dismiss the complaint because it is without merit, direct further preliminary inquiry, or authorize a full investigation.

If the complaint is of arguable merit, the Board will proceed with a full investigation to determine if probable cause exists to believe there is evidence of ethical misconduct that warrants discipline. Following authorization of a full investigation, counsel promptly sends a notice to the judicial officer. This notifies the judicial officer of the nature of the complaint and advises the jurist of the right to respond to the allegations. Following completion of the full investigation, the Board will either dismiss the complaint or direct the filing of charges in the Court of Judicial Discipline. Where the Board directs the filing of charges, board counsel presents the case in compliance with the rules of procedure promulgated by that court.

Complaints filed with the Board and any other statements, testimony, documents, records, or other information or evidence acquired for the Board during investigation are not matters of public information. All meetings and other proceedings of the Board are confidential. This confidentiality serves the dual purpose of protecting complainants from possible retaliation and guarding the reputations of innocent judicial officers who are the subjects of baseless complaints.

COURT OF JUDICIAL DISCIPLINE

The Court of Judicial Discipline was created by an amendment to Article V of the Pennsylvania Constitution, which was approved by the voters on May 18, 1993. This amendment abolished the Judicial Inquiry and Review Board and replaced it with a two-tiered system for investigating and adjudicating complaints of misconduct by the state's judicial officers. The first tier of the newly created system is the Judicial Conduct Board which investigates complaints and brings formal charges before the second tier, the Court of Judicial Discipline. The court then hears the case and determines whether misconduct has occurred and if so, the appropriate sanction to be imposed. The Judicial Conduct Board has the burden of proving the charges by clear and convincing evidence.

A justice, judge, or magisterial district judge has the right to appeal a final adverse order of discipline of the court. A judge or magisterial district judge wishing to appeal must do so to the Supreme Court. A justice wishing to appeal must do so to a special tribunal composed of seven judges chosen by lot from the judges of the Superior Court and Commonwealth Court who do not sit on the Court of Judicial Discipline or the Judicial Conduct Board. On appeal, the scope of review is plenary on the law, clearly erroneous on the facts, and, as to sanctions, the scope of review is whether the sanctions imposed were lawful.

The Court is composed of eight members, four of whom are appointed by the Supreme Court and four appointed by the Governor. By law, the Supreme Court's appointees include two judges, one magisterial district judge, and one non-lawyer elector. The Governor's appointees include one judge, two non-judge members of the bar, and one non-lawyer elector. No more than two of the members appointed by each appointing authority may be of the same political party. Except for initial members, members serve terms of four years and no member may serve more than four consecutive years but may be reappointed after a lapse of one year.

SENIOR JUDGES

Senior judges are defined by the Judicial Code, Act of July 9, 1976, P.L. 586, as amended by the Act of April 28, 1978, P.L. 202, 42 Pa. C.S.A. §101 et seq., as both retired and former judges who, with their consent, are assigned to temporary judicial service by the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, pursuant to Section 4121(b) of the Code. That Section is marked reserved and reference must be made to the Pennsylvania Rules of Judicial Administration No. 701, which prescribes the procedures for the assignment of such judges. Such assignment is authorized by Section 16(c) of Article V of the Pennsylvania Constitution.

All judges seeking assignment must have served at least 10 years and not have been defeated for reelection or, in the case of judges who retired mandatorily at age 70, must have served at least six years.

The term "senior judge" is, therefore, reserved for those judges who make themselves available for assignment as opposed to other retired judges of any age who are not available for such service.

SPECIAL COURTS*by CountyMAGISTERIAL DISTRICT JUDGES AND PHILADELPHIA MUNICIPAL AND TRAFFIC COURT JUDGES

The first two numbers following the district justice's name refer to the judicial district. The second number, which is either a one, two, three, or four, refers to the legislative classification of the magisterial district (See Magisterial Districts Act, Act of December 2, 1968, P.L. No. 352, and Magisterial Districts Act for Counties of the Second Class, Act of December 2, 1968, P.L. No. 359.) The third set of numbers represents the magisterial district number within the particular classification. For instance, Magisterial District 51-3-01 identifies the office of District Justice Thomas R. Carr, which is located in the 51st Judicial District (Adams County). It is a 3rd Class District, and it is number one of the 3rd Class Districts. In those cases where the last two numbers appear to be missing in a county's numerical order of districts, this is an indication that a previously existing district has been eliminated.

Henry C. Mercer's MOSAIC TILES

In 1899 Henry C. Mercer (pictured in the background) built the Moravian Pottery and Tile Works, which still operates in Doylestown today. By 1900 he had become an important figure in the Arts and Crafts movement in America. His largest commission was a production of field tile and 400 mosaics for the Capitol's first floor. Featured are four of his mosaics and in the background are two examples of photographic images that were used as references when producing the tiles. PENNSYLVANIA LOCAL GOVERNMENT

Local government in Pennsylvania is a mosaic of 5,148 individual units. All were established by the State or provincial government and operate under laws of the Commonwealth. Each unit is distinct and independent of other local units, although they may overlap geographically and may act together to serve the public.

As of 2005, there were 67 counties, 56 cities, 961 boroughs, 1 incorporated town, 1,547 townships (91 first class, 1,456 second class), 501 school districts and 2,015 authorities (active and inactive). The number of local units has remained fairly stable for the past few decades with two major exceptions. After passage of school district legislation in 1963 and 1965, the number of school districts diminished radically. Authorities, born as local units during the depression years of the 1930s, have proliferated at a phenomenal pace since then.

STATE AND LOCAL GOVERNMENT

Constitutional Provisions

The Constitution authorizes the state to enact laws regulating local units of government. It outlines basic requirements and rights. The Constitution requires periodic legislative redistricting, guarantees the right to select a home rule charter or an optional plan of government, and mandates uniform legislation establishing the procedure for consolidation, merger or change of municipal boundaries. The Constitution also prohibits special or local legislation by the General Assembly, sets up county government with elected row officers, permits classification of local governments according to population, and requires taxation to be uniform upon the same classes of subjects. The General Assembly is allowed to enact certain tax exemptions and special tax provisions because of age, disability, infirmity or poverty.

Classifications

Municipalities and school districts may be classified according to population, and the General Assembly can legislate separately for each class. There are four general types of municipalities in Pennsylvania: counties, cities, boroughs and townships. At the present time there are nine classes of counties, four classes of cities, two classes of townships and five classes of school districts. Boroughs are not classified. Legislation may be enacted for each class even though there is only one unit in a particular class, as is the case of Philadelphia as a city of the first class and Allegheny as the only county currently of the second class.

Each class of municipality operates under its own code of laws which sets forth the governmental structure as well as the general and specific powers of local government. Except for home rule municipalities, the codes are the most important source of legislative powers granted to a municipal governing body by the General Assembly. They are the County Code, Third Class City Code, Borough Code, First Class Township Code, Second Class Township Code and Public School Code.

Legislation

There is also extensive general legislation applying to local governments. Some examples of legislative provisions outside the local government codes are real property assessment, local non-property taxation, municipal borrowing, real estate tax collection, intergovernmental cooperation, municipal employees retirement, solid waste management, sewage facilities and planning and zoning.

Significant general laws affecting local governments both grant powers and impose restrictions. The Pennsylvania Municipalities Planning Code empowers municipalities to plan their development and adopt zoning, subdivision and land development ordinances. The Pennsylvania Sewage Facilities Act regulates community and individual sewage disposal systems. The Solid Waste Management Act provides for solid waste collection and disposal.

The Local Government Unit Debt Act establishes debt limits for local government units based on municipal revenues. The Municipal Police Education and Training Act mandates training of all municipal police officers. The Intergovernmental Cooperation Act permits two or more municipalities to cooperate jointly in the exercise of any governmental functions and allows municipalities to delegate powers to other local units. The Sunshine Law requires public agencies to discuss and act upon agency business only at meetings open to the public. There are numerous other general laws affecting local government powers and procedures.

Taxes

The state gives local governments authority to levy taxes on inhabitants and property within their jurisdiction and provides for tax exemptions. Taxes are levied and collected under general laws. The two primary sources of tax revenue at the local level are the real estate tax, authorized under the respective municipal codes, and the earned income tax, authorized by the Local Tax Enabling Act. The Local Tax Enabling Act authorizes numerous other types of taxes.

Home Rule

The Home Rule Charter and Optional Plans Law grants Pennsylvania municipalities the power to determine for themselves what structure their government will take and what services it will perform. A home rule municipality no longer has its powers and organization determined by the state legislature. A home rule municipality drafts and amends its own charter and can exercise any power or perform any function not denied by the state Constitution, the General Assembly or its home rule charter. As of January 2005, 71 municipalities have adopted home rule charters, including six counties, 19 cities, 19 boroughs and 27 townships.

Between 1957 and 1972, third class cities could choose the mayor-council or council-manager form of government. The Home Rule Charter and Optional Plans Law extended to all municipalities the right to adopt optional plans of government. Adoption of an optional plan of government alters a municipality's structural form and administrative organization. The municipality continues to be subject to its particular municipal code regarding municipal powers.

Six optional plans are provided for under the law: (1) Executive (Mayor)-Council Plan A (department of administration optional); (2) Executive (Mayor)-Council Plan B (department of administration mandated); (3) Executive (Mayor)-Council Plan C (provides for the office of managing director); (4) Council-Manager Plan; (5) Small Municipality Plan (limited to any municipality having a population of less than 7,500 residents); and (6) Optional County Plan (limited to counties). As of January 2005, three cities, two boroughs and six townships have adopted optional plans of government. Thirteen cities continue to operate under the Optional Third Class City Charter Law.

NATIONAL GOVERNMENT AND LOCAL UNITS

Local government is one of the powers reserved to the states in Article X of the United States Constitution. However, since the 1930s when the big cities of the nation looked to the federal government for financial assistance to combat the problems brought on by the economic depression, the national government has taken an increasingly active role in local government, especially in the urban areas. Recent developments have also evidenced concern for rural areas. Through financial subsidies, grants and technical assistance, federal agencies have stimulated development of low-cost housing, urban renewal, improved educational facilities, modern highways, health and welfare services, and personal security. Federal programs, such as housing and community development, have strengthened direct links between federal and local government. There is a trend toward reduced federal funding and more local decision-making in federal programs.

COUNTIES

There are 67 counties in Pennsylvania including the consolidated city-county of Philadelphia, and each inhabitant of the state lives in and comes under the jurisdiction of one of them. The largest in population is Philadelphia with over 1.5 million people; the smallest is Forest with approximately 4,946. The Constitution establishes a basic organization, but counties can adopt their own form of government. Six counties have adopted home rule charters: Allegheny, Delaware, Erie, Lackawanna, Lehigh and Northampton.

County Functions

Counties continue to serve in their traditional role as agents of the state for law enforcement, judicial administration and the conduct of elections. The county is also responsible for the property assessment function. Counties become involved in regional planning, solid waste disposal and public health. They perform welfare functions, including mental health. Counties also can establish housing and redevelopment authorities and conduct community development programs. Counties maintain hospitals and homes for the aged. Counties may support local libraries and community colleges.

Legislation enacted in recent years has strengthened the policymaking role of boards of county commissioners, granting them greater control of and responsibility for county government. The geographic size of counties enables them to cope with functions that can be better performed on an area-wide basis, i.e., mass transportation and environmental protection.

County Government

County government, as provided for in the county codes, may be described as a "no-executive" type. The chief governing body is the three-member board of county commissioners. But there are also numerous other elected officials to a large extent independent of the county commissioners. These include the sheriff, district attorney, prothonotary, clerk of courts, register of wills, recorder of deeds and two jury commissioners whose duties are mostly concerned with the work of the county court. Additionally, there are the elective offices of the controller or three auditors and the treasurer who are county finance officers. A public defender is appointed as provided by law. The county commissioners, the elected officers and the county court individually or jointly appoint a number of other county officials and employees needed to carry out county functions by law.

Whereas the 11 elective county officers are enumerated in the Pennsylvania Constitution, their powers and duties are prescribed by statutes which are scattered throughout the county codes and general state laws. Consolidation of certain elective offices is provided by state law in the smaller class counties involving the offices of prothonotary, clerk of courts, register of wills and recorder of deeds.

MUNICIPALITIES

Municipal Powers

In addition to living under a county government, every Pennsylvanian also lives in a municipality. Municipal governing bodies make policy decisions, levy taxes, borrow money, authorize expenditures and direct administration of their governments by their appointees. The scope of their functions and responsibilities is broad.

Many powers given to local governments are not exercised in every place, while others are shared with the state and even the national government. All of the various municipal units of Pennsylvania share the same basic responsibilities with respect to the provision of public services at the local level and have similar statutory powers for the most part. Although cities have more specifically enumerated powers than boroughs or townships, many of those powers may also be exercised by boroughs and townships under general grants of power. Home rule provides equal opportunity for all classes of municipalities to exercise new powers.

Municipal Functions

The main areas of local services include police and fire protection, maintenance of local roads and streets, water supply, sewage collection and treatment, parking and traffic control, local planning and zoning, parks and recreation, garbage collection, health services, libraries, licensing of businesses and code enforcement.

CITIES

First and Second Class Cities

The oldest and largest Pennsylvania city, Philadelphia, has had a strong-mayor home rule charter since 1952. There is a council of 17 members, one elected from each of the ten councilmanic districts of the city and seven elected at-large. Each political party may nominate one candidate for each of the ten districts and up to five candidates for the seven at-large places. This ensures that the minority party will elect at least two at-large members. The mayor, also elected, has control over the administration of the city and is assisted by a managing director who supervises ten major departments, a director of finance, a city representative and a city solicitor.

Pittsburgh and Scranton, second class and second class A cities respectively, also have strong mayors. These mayors, like the chief executive of Philadelphia, have broad appointive and removal powers, are responsible for the preparation of the annual budget, recommend measures for the consideration of council and may veto legislation which may be overridden by a two-thirds majority of the council. Home rule charters were adopted by Scranton and Pittsburgh in 1974. In all three cities, the mayor is the dominant force in city government.

Third Class Cities

The code establishes a commission form of government. Under this form, the mayor and four other members constitute the commission which is the governing body of the city. The mayor is one of the members of council and acts as president. Each council member is in charge of one of the five major departments. Council members, the controller and treasurer are elected at-large by the voters for a four-year term. Councilmanic terms overlap. The Council appoints all other officers and employees. Twenty of the 53 third class cities operate under the commission form: Aliquippa, Arnold, Beaver Falls, Bradford, Butler, Connelville, Corry, Duquesne, Jeannette, Lower Burrell, Monessen, Monongahela, Nanticoke, New Kensington, Parker City, Pittston, Pottsville, Shamokin, Sunbury, Uniontown and Washington.

From 1957 to 1972, cities could adopt two other forms of government (mayor-council or council-manager) by referendum under the Optional Third Class City Charter Law. The mayor-council form has a five, seven or nine-member council, elected at-large for overlapping four-year terms. A mayor, treasurer and a controller also are elected for a four-year period. The mayor is the chief executive of the city and enforces the ordinances of council. The mayor may veto ordinances which can be overridden by a two-thirds majority of council. The mayor supervises the work of all city departments and submits the annual city budget to council. Cities operating under this plan include Bethlehem, Easton, Erie, Harrisburg, Lancaster, New Castle, Sharon, Williamsport and York.

In the council-manager form, all authority is lodged with council which is composed of five, seven or nine members elected at-large for a four-year term. A city treasurer and controller also are elected. A city manager is appointed by council. The manager is the chief administrative officer of the city and is responsible for executing the ordinances of council. The manager appoints and may remove department heads and subordinates. Cities operating under this plan include Lock Haven, Meadville, Oil City and Titusville.

Since 1972, 16 cities have adopted home rule charters including Allentown, Carbondale, Chester, Clairton, Coatesville, Farrell, Franklin, Greensburg, Hermitage, Johnstown, Lebanon, McKeesport, Reading, St. Marys, Warren and Wilkes-Barre. Also, DuBois and Altoona have adopted the council-manager optional plan and Hazleton, the mayor-council optional plan, under the Home Rule Charter and Optional Plans Law.

BOROUGHS

The present type of borough government is the weak mayor form which governed all incorporated municipalities during the 19th century. Most of the present cities were boroughs first and became cities as their population increased. Boroughs have a strong and dominant council, a weak executive and other elected officers with powers independent of the council. The governing body of the borough is an elected council. The tax collector, tax assessor and the auditors also are elected. Many other officials are appointed by borough council.

The mayor is elected for a four-year term; council members are elected for four-year overlapping terms. A borough not divided into wards usually has seven council members; in boroughs divided into wards, at least one and not more than two are elected from each ward, except in boroughs that have three council members as provided for in Section 806(2) of the Borough Code. The powers of council are broad and extensive, covering virtually the whole range of urban municipal functions.

In more than 200 boroughs, the chief administrative officer is a manager appointed by council. The manager is responsible for carrying out the policies and enforcing the ordinances of council, relieving council from routine day-to-day administration.

Since 1972, 19 boroughs have adopted home rule charters: Bellevue, Bethel Park, Bradford Woods, Bryn Athyn, Cambridge Springs, Chalfont, Edinboro, Green Tree, Kingston, Latrobe, Monroeville, Murrysville, Norristown, Portage, State College, Tyrone, West Chester, Whitehall and Youngsville. The boroughs of Weatherly and Quakertown have adopted optional plans, selecting council-manager plans.

TOWNSHIPS

Pennsylvania has two classes of townships. The first numbers 91 and includes the more urban townships located in the state's metropolitan areas; the second class, numbering 1,456, is generally rural.

In townships of the first class, the governing body is made up of elected commissioners. There are either five commissioners elected at-large or up to 15 elected by wards. The commissioners have four-year overlapping terms.

The governing body of second class townships is composed of three supervisors who are elected at-large. Two additional supervisors may be elected if approved by referendum. All are elected at-large for six-year terms.

Other elected township officials include the tax assessor, tax collector (second class), three auditors or controller, and a treasurer (first class). Appointive officers include the secretary, township manager if desired, chief of police, fire chief, engineer, solicitor and others.

To become a township of the first class, a second class township must have a population density of 300 persons per square mile, and voters must approve change of classification in a referendum. Many townships meeting the density requirement have remained second class.

Since 1972, 12 townships of the first class adopted home rule charters: Cheltenham, Haverford, McCandless, Mt. Lebanon, O'Hara, Penn Hills, Plymouth, Radnor, Upper Darby, Upper St. Clair, Whitehall and Wilkes-Barre. Fifteen townships of the second class have also adopted home rule charters: Chester, Elk, Ferguson, Hampton, Hanover, Horsham, Kingston, Middletown, Peters, Pine, Richland, Tredyffrin, Upper Providence, West Deer and Whitemarsh. Five townships of the second class adopted optional plans of government. College, Indiana, Lower Saucon and Washington townships adopted the council-manager form. Bensalem Township as well as Bristol Township, a first class township, have adopted the executive-council optional plan.

AUTHORITIES

The authority is a special kind of local unit. They are not general government entities as are cities, boroughs and townships. They are set up to perform a special service. An authority is a body corporate and politic authorized to acquire, construct, improve, maintain and operate projects, and to borrow money and issue bonds to finance them. Projects include public facilities such as buildings, including school buildings, transportation facilities, marketing and shopping facilities, highways, parkways, airports, parking places, waterworks, sewage treatment plants, playgrounds, hospitals and industrial development projects.

An authority can be organized by any county, city, town, borough, township or school district of the Commonwealth, acting singly or jointly with another municipality. An authority is established by ordinance by one or more municipalities. The governing bodies of the parent local unit or units appoint the members of the authority's board. If incorporated by one unit, the board consists of five members; if comprised of two or more local units, there is at least one member from each unit but no less than five. The board carries on the work of the authority, acquires property, appoints officers and employees, undertakes projects, makes regulations and charges, and collects revenue from services of the facilities or projects.

The original reason for the establishment of authorities was the restrictive provisions for incurring debt imposed by the Commonwealth prior to the 1968 constitutional amendments, but they have proven useful mechanisms particularly for joint municipal projects. As of January 2005, there were 2,157 authorities in Pennsylvania. They have continued to grow at a substantial rate from the 1962 figure of 1,398.

COUNTIES

THE ACT PROVIDING FOR THE CLASSIFICATION OF COUNTIES

Section 210. Counties Divided into Nine Classes.

Section 1. Section 210, act of August 9, 1955 (PL. 323), known as "The County Code," amended Feb. 5, 1982, is amended to read:

Section 210. Counties Divided into Nine Classes. — For the purposes of legislation and the regulation of their affairs, counties of this Commonwealth, now in existence and those hereafter created, shall be divided into nine classes as follows:

- (1) First Class Counties, those having a population of 1,500,000 inhabitants and over.
- (2) Second Class Counties, those having a population of 800,000 and more but less than 1,500,000 inhabitants.
- (2.1) Second Class A Counties, those having a population of 500,000 and more but less than 800,000 inhabitants.
- (3) Third Class Counties, those having a population of 210,000 and more but less than 500,000 inhabitants.
- (4) Fourth Class Counties, those having a population of 145,000 and more but less than 210,000 inhabitants.
- (5) Fifth Class Counties, those having a population of 95,000 and more but less than 145,000 inhabitants.
- (6) Sixth Class Counties, those having a population of 45,000 and more but less than 95,000 inhabitants and those having a population of 35,000 and more but less than 45,000 inhabitants which by ordinance or resolution of the Board of County Commissioners elect to be a county of the sixth class.
- (7) Seventh Class Counties, those having a population of 20,000 or more but less than 45,000 inhabitants and those having a population of 35,000 and more but less than 45,000 inhabitants which have not elected to be a county of the sixth class.
- (8) Eighth Class Counties, those having a population of less than 20,000 inhabitants.

Section 2. Whenever a county advances in class under this act, the provisions of The County Code or any other law relating to the qualifications of district attorneys for the higher class county shall not be applicable to any district attorney of such county elected prior to January 1, 1972.

NOTE: Act 107, signed by Governor Schweiker (12/17/01) amended Section 210. The population thresholds were lowered for third and fourth class counties. The amendment allowed Lackawanna County to revert back to a third class county and Fayette County to revert back to a fourth class county. While Act 107 would have moved Cumberland County to a third class county, language was inserted that states the following: "Any county whose classification upon the effective date of this section would be advanced from its classification during the preceding decade as a result of the amendment ... shall retain the ... existing classification ... unless the Board of County Commissioners of the county elects by ordinance or resolution to advance its classification." Cumberland County chose to retain its classification.

Section 211. Ascertainment, Certification and Effect of Change of Class.

(a) The classification of counties shall be ascertained and fixed according to their population by reference from time to time to the decennial United States census as hereinafter provided, deducting therefrom the number of persons residing on any lands that have been ceded to the United States.

(b) Whenever it shall appear by any such census that any county has attained a population entitling it to an advance in classification, or whenever it shall appear by the last two preceding censuses that a county has heretofore or hereafter decreased in population so as to recede in classification, as herein prescribed, it shall be in the duty of the Governor, under the great seal of this Commonwealth, to certify that fact accordingly, to the board of county commissioners on or before the first day of October of the year succeeding that in which the census was taken or as soon thereafter as may be, which certificate shall be forwarded by the commissioners to the recorder of deeds and be recorded in his office.

It is the intent of this section that the classification of any county shall not be changed because its population has decreased at the time of one United States decennial census, because it is recognized that a change in the form of local government is attended by certain expense and hardship, and such change should not be occasioned by a temporary fluctuation in population, but rather only after it is demonstrated by two censuses that the population of a county has remained below the minimum figure of its class for at least a decade.

(c) Changes of class ascertained and certified as aforesaid shall become effective on the first day of January next following the year in which the change was so certified by the Governor to the county commissioners but the salaries of county officers shall not thereby be increased or decreased during the term for which they shall have been elected. In the municipal election following such certification of change of class and preceding the effective date of such change, the proper number of persons shall be elected to fill any elective office which will exist in the county by the change in classification certified. No election shall be held for any office which will be abolished as a result of such change of classification. The County Code, (PL. 323), Aug. 9, 1955; as last amended Act No. 478, Aug. 22, 1961.

CLINTON COUNTY (6th class, population 37,914) was created on June 21, 1839 from parts of Centre and Lycoming Counties, and probably named for Governor DeWitt Clinton of New York, a promoter of the Erie Canal. Actually, the name seems to have been substituted, as a political maneuver, for the name "Eagle," first proposed, thus thwarting opponents of the new county. Lock Haven, the county seat, derived its name from its position on the West Branch Canal, which was completed to Lock Haven in 1834. It was incorporated as a borough on May 25, 1840, and became a city on March 28, 1870.

COLUMBIA COUNTY (6th class, population 64,151) was created on March 22, 1813 from part of Northumberland County. Its name is a poetic allusion to America. Bloomsburg, the county seat since November 30, 1847, was incorporated as a town on March 4, 1870, and still is the only incorporated town in the state. Its name comes from Bloom Township, which was named for Samuel Bloom, a commissioner of Northumberland County. Danville, the county seat from 1813 to 1846, is now the seat of Montour County.

LYCOMING COUNTY (5th class, population 120,044) was created on April 13, 1795 from part of Northumberland County, and named for Lycoming Creek. The name is derived from a Delaware Indian word meaning "sandy or gravelly creek." Williamsport, the county seat, was laid out in 1795, incorporated as a borough on March 1, 1806, and became a city on January 15, 1866. There are various theories about the origin of the city's name: that it was so called for Judge William Hepburn; that Michael Ross named it for his own son William; or that William Ross, a boatman, used it as a port years before the town was founded.

CITIES

THE ACT PROVIDING FOR THE CLASSIFICATION OF CITIES

Section 1 – Purpose of classification; division into classes.

For the purpose of legislation regulating their municipal affairs, the exercise of certain corporate powers, and having respect to the number, character, powers, and duties of certain officers thereof, the cities now in existence and those hereafter created in this Commonwealth shall be divided into four classes:

Those containing a population of one million or over shall constitute the first class.

Those containing a population of two hundred fifty thousand and under one million shall constitute the second class.

Those containing a population of eighty thousand and under two hundred fifty thousand and which by ordinance elect to be a city of the second class A shall constitute the second class A.

Those containing a population under two hundred fifty thousand and which have not elected to become a city of the second class A constitute the third class.

Section 2 – The classification of said cities respectively, shall be ascertained and fixed by reference to the last two preceding United States decennial censuses, and whenever it shall appear by both of such censuses, that any city of the first, second or second A class has decreased in population below the minimum population figures prescribed for its current classification, or that any city of the second, second A or third class has increased above the maximum population figure prescribed for its current classification, it shall be the duty of the Governor, under the great seal of the Commonwealth, to certify the fact accordingly, which certificate shall be entered at large upon the minutes of the councils of such city and recorded in the office for recording the deeds of the proper county. No change in classification or in the existing form of government shall become effective until ten years after the certification of the fact of decrease or increase of population by the Governor: Provided, That the court of common pleas of the county in which the city is located shall appoint a charter commission to study and make recommendations on the adoption of a form of city government under sections 3, 4, 5, 6 and 7 of this act, and a form of government is adopted within the above ten-year period. If a form of government is not adopted within the ten-year period, the city shall automatically become classified according to the provisions of section 1 of this act and be subject to the provisions therein.

It is the intent of the preceding paragraph that the classification of any city of the first, second, second class A and third class shall not be changed because its population has changed at the time of one United States decennial census, because it is recognized that a change in the form of municipal government is attended by certain expense and hardship and such change should not be occasioned by a temporary fluctuation in population but rather only after it is demonstrated by two censuses that the population of a city has remained below the minimum figure or above the maximum figure of its class for at least a decade.

At the municipal election occurring not less than one month after the date of such certificate the proper officers shall be elected to which the said city will become entitled under the change in classification, and upon the first Monday of April next ensuing the terms of all officers of said city when in office whose offices are superseded by reason thereof shall cease and determine, and the city government shall be duly organized and shall thereafter be controlled and regulated by the laws of this Commonwealth applicable to the same under the classification hereby fixed and appointed.

Until otherwise provided by law, cities of the second class A shall continue to be governed, and shall have all the powers, privileges and prerogatives now provided by the laws of the Commonwealth relating to the cities of the second class. (1895 P.L. 275, Sections 1 and 2, as amended.)

NOTE: Article II Sec. 201 of the Third Class City Code states that "Cities of the third class shall be chartered whenever a majority of the electors of any town, township or borough or any two or more contiguous towns, townships, or boroughs, or any combination thereof, situate within the limits of the same county or situate in two or more contiguous counties, and having separately or together, as the case may be, a population of at least ten thousand according to the last preceding United States census, shall each separately vote at any general or municipal election in favor of the same."

Edwin Austin Abbey MURALS

Edwin Austin Abbey (featured in foreground) was one of the most celebrated artists of his day. In 1902 he received his largest commission—decorating the rotunda, House, Senate, and Supreme Court Chambers in the Pennsylvania Capitol, though he passed away before he could finish all his work. Featured are three of his murals from the rotunda and House Chamber. A—The Spirit of Light; B—The Apotheosis of Pennsylvania; Background (top)—The Declaration of Independence.

GENERAL INFORMATION

The Secretary of State, or as he or she has been called in Pennsylvania, the Secretary of the Commonwealth, is the chief election officer of the Commonwealth.

The Bureau of Commissions, Elections, and Legislation, supervised by the Commissioner of Commissions, Elections, and Legislation, performs the administrative election functions for the Secretary of the Commonwealth. These functions include duties related to campaign expense reporting, voter registration, absentee balloting, candidate requirements, and election legislation. The Bureau of Elections has available an election guide which briefly describes the electoral process, a voter registration brochure which highlights import procedures, as well as election calendars which list important dates.

Both the Constitution of the United States and the Constitution of Pennsylvania contain provisions concerning the voter and elections. Article XV of the United States Constitution declares: "The right of citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on account of race, color, or previous condition of servitude." Congress is given the power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.

In the bill of rights, the Constitution of Pennsylvania states that elections are to be free and equal, and that no power, civil or military, shall interfere to prevent the free exercise of the right of suffrage. The Constitution also enumerates the qualifications for voting. Every citizen 18 years of age is eligible to vote if he or she has been a citizen of the United States at least one month and has resided in the state 30 days immediately preceding the election. In a 1971 opinion handed down by the Attorney General of Pennsylvania, college students are permitted under state law to vote in the locality at which they are attending a college or university.

Other constitutional provisions relate to election days, offices to be filled by election, rights of electors, bribery of electors, election and registration laws, voting machines, violation of election laws, election districts, election officers, contested elections, and absentee voting.

Outside of constitutional provisions, the General Assembly has the power to enact legislation on voting and elections. The substantial bulk of such legislation is contained in the Registration and Election Codes of the Commonwealth. A further amplification of election law is made by the courts in their interpretations of constitutional and statutory provisions in the light of actual cases of violation which comes before them.

GEORGE W. BUSH is the 43rd President of the United States. He was sworn into office on January 20, 2001, re-elected on November 2, 2004, and sworn in for a second term on January 20, 2005. Prior to his Presidency, President Bush served for six years as the 46th Governor of the State of Texas, where he earned a reputation for bipartisanship and as a compassionate conservative who shaped public policy based on the principles of limited government, personal responsibility, strong families, and local control.

President Bush was born July 6, 1946 in New Haven, Connecticut, and grew up in Midland and Houston, Texas. He received a Bachelor's degree in history from Yale University in 1968, and then served as an F-102 fighter pilot in the Texas Air National Guard. President Bush received a Master in Business Administration from Harvard Business School in 1975. Following graduation, he moved back to Midland and began a career in the energy business. After working on his father's successful 1988 Presidential campaign, President Bush assembled the group of partners who purchased the Texas Rangers baseball franchise in 1989. On November 4, 1994, President Bush was elected Governor of Texas. He became the first Governor in Texas history to be elected to consecutive four-year terms when he was re-elected on November 3, 1998.

Since becoming President of the United States in 2001, President Bush has worked with the Congress to create an ownership society and build a future of security, prosperity, and opportunity for all Americans. He signed into law tax relief that helps workers keep more of their hard-earned money, as well as the most comprehensive education reforms in a generation, the No Child Left Behind Act of 2001. This legislation is ushering in a new era of accountability, flexibility, local control, and more choices for parents, affirming our Nation's fundamental belief in the promise of every child. President Bush has also worked to improve healthcare and modernize Medicare, providing the first-ever prescription drug benefit for seniors; increase homeownership, especially among minorities; conserve our environment; and increase military strength, pay, and benefits. Because President Bush believes the strength of America lies in the hearts and souls of our citizens, he has supported programs that encourage individuals to help their neighbors in need.

On the morning of September 11, 2001, terrorists attacked our Nation. Since then, President Bush has taken unprecedented steps to protect our homeland and create a world free from terror. He is grateful for the service and sacrifice of our brave men and women in uniform and their families. The President is confident that by helping build free and prosperous societies, our Nation and our friends and allies will succeed in making America more secure and the world more peaceful.

President Bush is married to Laura Welch Bush, a former teacher and librarian, and they have twin daughters, Barbara and Jenna. The Bush family also includes two dogs, Barney and Miss Beazley, and a cat, Willie.

BIOGRAPHY OF MARJORIE OSTERLUND RENDELL

MARJORIE OSTERLUND RENDELL

Marjorie Osterlund Rendell became the 43rd First Lady of Pennsylvania when her husband, Edward G. Rendell, was sworn in as Governor of Pennsylvania on January 21, 2003.

Judge Rendell, a cum laude, Phi Beta Kappa graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, received her Juris Doctor degree from the Villanova University School of Law in 1973. Upon graduation from law school, she joined the law firm of Duane, Morris & Heckscher, where she subsequently became the firm's second woman partner. Over the course of her 20-year career as a practicing attorney, she specialized in bankruptcy law and commercial litigation, served as a mediator for the United States District Court, and was a frequent speaker at law-related seminars and panels.

Inducted as a judge of the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania in March 1994, Judge Rendell was elevated to the United States Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit in November 1997. She is the Chair of the United States Judicial Conference Committee on the Administration of the Bankruptcy System and also serves on several Third Circuit committees. Judge Rendell is a Fellow of the American College of Bankruptcy, an inaugural member and Master of the Villanova University School of Law J. Willard O'Brien Inn of Court, an elected member of The American Law Institute, a member of the Federal Judges Association, the American Judicature Society, and the National Association of Women Judges.

In October 2004, Judge Rendell was awarded the Philadelphia Bar Association's Sandra Day O'Connor Award, an award given annually to a woman attorney who has excelled in the legal profession. Judge Rendell is a former Vice-Chair of the Board of Trustees of The Visiting Nurse Association of Greater Philadelphia and has served on the boards of many charitable and civic organizations. Judge Rendell is currently Chair of the Board of Overseers of the University of Pennsylvania School of Nursing, a member of the Board of Overseers of Penn Medicine, and a member of the Trustees Council of Penn Women. Additionally, she is the Chair of the Avenue of the Arts, Inc. and a member of the Board of Directors of the Kimmel Center for the Performing Arts in Philadelphia.

As First Lady, Judge Rendell's primary initiative will focus on imparting civic responsibility to our children through citizenship and civic learning. She feels it is important to cultivate a shared concern for citizenship so that our children understand can gain an understanding of our representative democracy and foster a greater understanding of their rights and responsibilities as young citizens in the democratic process. The First Lady also promotes Pennsylvania's rich history, partners with the Pennsylvania Commission for Women on its initiatives, and is a frequent speaker to women's groups across the Commonwealth.

She and her husband, also a Penn graduate (C '65), have been married more than 30 years and have an adult son, Jesse. They enjoy the company of their two golden retrievers, Mandy and Ginger.

DISTINGUISHED DAUGHTERS OF PENNSYLVANIA AWARDS

In 1948 a group of influential women suggested to Governor James H. Duff that outstanding women of Pennsylvania be recognized for their leadership and contributions to the state. The plans to honor these women developed into the Distinguished Daughters of Pennsylvania Awards, and the first awards were given in 1949.

Each year, state organizations nominate women in recognition of outstanding accomplishments of statewide or national importance. Quality of achievement of the individual comes first. The Daughters select the names to be given to the governor for approval.

GOVERNOR'S AWARDS FOR THE ARTS

Governor Edward G. Rendell's Administration has developed and refined five award categories, including an award to recognize those whose work in the arts benefits youth or arts in education, and an award for an outstanding Creative Pennsylvania Community that has utilized arts and culture to address important issues. The following five categories are comprehensive and reflect the excellence and variety of Pennsylvania's cultural landscape and pay tribute to the Commonwealth's rich cultural achievements and notable philanthropic traditions: the Distinguished Arts Award—recognizing a Pennsylvania artist or arts organization of "international fame, leadership, or renown whose creations or contributions enrich the Commonwealth"; the Creative Pennsylvania Community Award—recognizing Pennsylvania neighborhoods, cities, or communities that have creatively utilized arts and culture to address issues such as quality of life, downtown revitalization, cultural tourism, community planning, business attraction, tolerance, local pride, community cohesion, urban blight, economic development, or other local or regional issues of importance; the Patron Award—recognizing the corporation (or foundation in alternating years) which has "made significant contributions to the vitality and availability of the arts in Pennsylvania"; the Arts Leadership and Service Award—recognizing an individual, organization, or group "for their outstanding contributions to arts leadership and service"; and the Artist of the Year (The Hazlett Memorial Award)—recognizing an individual artist "for their creations and contributions to the excellence of the arts in the Commonwealth."

The Governor's Awards for the Arts represent a Pennsylvania tradition begun in 1980 by Governor Dick Thornburgh. Presented annually in Harrisburg at the State Capitol, these awards honored artists in each of the following categories: painting, sculpture, photography, music, literature, dance, theatre, crafts, and media arts. An award was also made for "service to the arts." The awards, which recognized Pennsylvanians who contributed their creative talents to their communities, were named the Hazlett Memorial Awards for Excellence in the Arts, after the late Theodore L. Hazlett Jr. of Pittsburgh, the first chairman of the Pennsylvania Council on the Arts. The awards were administered by the Pennsylvania Council on the Arts. A Distinguished Pennsylvania Artist Award was also established to be chosen by the Governor. Note: No standard policy was established for this category, but it was generally agreed that the recipient would be a native Pennsylvanian and an artist of world renown.

Following the 1982 awards, the Hazlett awards were presented in no more than six disciplines, in alternating years, and architecture was added as a category.

The awards were suspended in 1987 in the first year of Governor Robert P. Casey's administration. In 1988, through his cultural advisor's office, Governor Casey established "a comprehensive Governor's awards program" with the Governor's Awards for Excellence in the Arts, Humanities, and Sciences "to honor outstanding individual creativity and achievement, to focus attention upon the critical importance of the arts, humanities, and sciences in the life of an enlightened democratic society, and to pay tribute to Pennsylvania's rich cultural and intellectual traditions." A single award was presented in each area.

In 1996, oversight and administration of the Governor's Awards returned to the Pennsylvania Council on the Arts. Four new award categories were established by Governor Tom Ridge to recognize not only the contributions of Pennsylvania's individual artists and patrons of the arts, but also the outstanding arts organizations which make the Commonwealth a leader in the cultural life of the nation. For the first time, a category was established which recognizes the significant contributions to the arts made by corporations and foundations (the Patron Award). Governor Ridge also directed that the annual awards ceremony be held in a different location within the Commonwealth each year.

RECREATION

Pennsylvania offers unparalleled opportunities for enjoyment and appreciation of its natural beauty. Careful planning and construction of a system of state parks and preservation of waterways and virgin land within state forests utilize this natural beauty by providing citizens free or relatively inexpensive access to Pennsylvania's scenic, recreational, and historic resources.

Beyond the simple enjoyment of nature, recreational activities include picnicking, boating, swimming, camping, fishing, hiking, hunting, and winter sports. Continuing acquisition, development, and maintenance of our State Parks and State Forest systems ensures increased availability and enjoyment of these facilities for tourists and all Pennsylvanians.
